Illinois House, Senate Look Towards A Long Week Of Legislation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — One man's filibustering campaign against the proposed state budget has lawmakers ready to dig in for a marathon session, if necessary, when the Illinois House reconvenes Tuesday.

House members were warned when they adjourned Wednesday to be prepared for extended sessions this week. Speaker Paul Powell later told a reporter he's ready "to bring in the cots" if Rep. Abraham Lincoln Stanfield keeps up the parliamentary stalling.

Stanfield, contacted Saturday at his home in Kansas, an eastern Illinois hamlet, said he would renew his demand that all bills be read in full—a tactic which, while not choking off action on bills, would continue to slow things up.

Stanfield launched his slowdown last Tuesday in protest against Gov. William G. Stratton's budget recommendations for increased spending and taxation over the next two years. Stanfield estimated he would last "three days and three nights" this week.

"Publicity Seeker"

Irritated at Stanfield's intention to renew the filibuster, Powell described the Kansas legislator as a "publicity seeker" who has no specific proposals to offer for trimming appropriations.

"If he really was sincere," Powell observed, "he wouldn't hold up all the members' bills—he'd just ask for appropriation measures to be read in full."

Stanfield, who was scolded by fellow Republicans last week for not having specific budget-trimming recommendations of his own, told a reporter he would have amendments to offer when the House meets Tuesday.

Around The Clock

With 365 bills on Tuesday's house calendar, among them many minor appropriations, Powell vowed he'd keep the House in session "24 hours a day if necessary to keep up with the work."

Awaiting final legislative clearance in the House is a one million dollar appropriation for a dam and reservoir on the Kaskaskia River. Other appropriations pending in earlier stages of advancement include $1,275,000 for hospitalization of tubercular patients, $75,000 for plans to relocate highways in the Freeport area, and $300,000 for sewer improvements in Cook County.

Other Filibusters

Filibusters have dogged the legislature during several recent sessions. In 1949, Rep. John Lewis (R-Marshall) called one to block a proposed two-cent hike in the gas tax. Rep. John Morris (D-Chadwick) resorted to filibuster in 1955 to voice his opposition to three bills involving the Chicago Exposition building fund. Last session Senate Democrats stalled the upper chamber in an unsuccessful bid to raise the state school aid figure.

In the Senate this week, where procedure is unhampered by delaying tactics, a bill to permit out-of-state heirs to name administrators of their Illinois estates is ready for passage. If the bill clears the Senate, it must return to the House for concurrence in an amendment before it can be sent to Stratton, who vetoed it two years ago.

Seek Property Lien

Other bills on passage stage in the Senate would authorize junior colleges to charge tuition and would make various changes in the public assistance code—among them, tightening family liability regulations and permitting public aid officials to place a lien on real estate of old age assistance recipients.

Career Man Considered For Brazil

WASHINGTON (AP)—If he takes senatorial advice, President Eisenhower probably will name a career man to fill the Brazilian ambassadorship Clare Boothe Luce didn't accept.

The controversy over Mrs. Luce's exchange of barbs with Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) has left the Senate anxious to avoid any further political brawls over Latin American diplomatic posts.

Selection of a noncontroversial career officer to take over at Rio de Janeiro obviously would please both Republicans and Democrats interested in offsetting any possible damage done to good neighbor relations.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon's comment that it will be difficult to find anybody who can fill the post as ably as Mrs. Luce appeared to point to a belief on his part that an experienced diplomat must be chosen. Mrs. Luce formerly served as ambassador to Italy.

Nixon described Brazil as one of the most important diplomatic posts in the world. With that in mind, some Republicans think Eisenhower may pick a seasoned career man for the job.

Although Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind) has proposed that the Senate censure Morse for telephoning Mrs. Luce's doctor to ask if she had undergone psychiatric treatments, Republican leaders evidently would rather forget the whole matter.

Capehart's proposal was laughed off by Democratic leaders. They obviously feel that Morse could more than take care of himself in any such affair. Morse said he would welcome the opportunity.

Ice Age Elephant Skeleton Found

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — A geological rarity—the nearly complete skeleton of an ice age elephant—has been unearthed accidentally in northern Indiana farmland.

Parts of the skeleton were discovered by a soil conservation party digging ditches last week in Fulton County. Purdue University geologists were notified, and they organized an evacuation project.

So far they have recovered several hundred bones weighing more than 400 pounds.

The skeleton is believed to be that of an elephant that roamed the North American continent about 8,000 years ago.

Peak Announces State Fair Races To Get $414,000

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Premiums for the 1959 Illinois State Fair Aug. 14-23 total slightly more than $556,000.

Harness racing gets $414,000 of this, J. Ralph Peak, fair manager, said Saturday.

The prize money comes in two big chunks: $366,927 from various breeder associations and $189,122 from the agricultural premium fund.

The latter is derived from a one-half of one per cent levy on pari-mutuel wagering at Illinois harness racing tracks.

Youth In Jail Tries Suicide, Rescued, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — A 16-year-old boy in jail for robbery tried to hang himself Saturday and then died, police said, after being given a sedative.

The youngster, Pedro Ortega had been convicted of first degree robbery Friday in Bronx County Court.

Police said a guard at the Brooklyn Adolescent Center had found Ortega hanging from a twisted bedsheet on his cell door Saturday morning.

The guard cut him down. With the aid of another guard, artificial respiration and oxygen were administered until the arrival of an ambulance physician.

The boy then began to struggle and was placed in a straitjacket at the order of the physician, who administered a sedative. Later the youth died in the jail.

Kidnap Madison Supervisor Until Voting Is Over

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP) — William Deatherage, 43, told police Saturday he was kidnaped early in the morning and held until the end of a county board of supervisors election.

After the election for chairman of the board was over and the man Deatherage was supporting lost 20-19, he was released, Deatherage said.

He said he was taken captive when he stopped at a stop sign. Two men, armed and masked, forced him to lie down in the back seat and he was blindfolded, he said.

East St. Louis police said a witness saw the incident and called them shortly after Deatherage was carried off.

A little after noon, Deatherage flagged down a state highway trooper's patrol car in Madison County.

He said the men drove him to a house north of East St. Louis, kept him there for several hours then dumped him unhurt in a deserted area of Madison County.

Deatherage offered to take a lie detector test and called for a grand jury investigation.

He is president of the East St. Louis Retail Clerks Union Local 676.

Deatherage said he was supporting John Quirin, who was defeated in the county board election.

The winner was Wetzel Harness. Harness was supported by a faction led by the outgoing chairman Francis Touchette. Quarin was backed by East St. Louis Mayor Alvin G. Fields and County Sheriff Dan Ring.

Herter Returns Home, Tells Ike Big Four Leaders Are United

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter flew in from Paris Saturday and told President Eisenhower the Western powers are ready to open negotiations with the Soviet Union for an end to the Berlin crisis and a start on German unification.

He described as very successful his talks with British, French, and West German foreign ministers last week. In an airport arrival statement, he challenged the Soviet Union to show an honest desire to negotiate in the Big Four meeting coming up at Geneva, Switzerland, May 11.

The Western ministers reached final agreement on a set of proposals to present to the Soviet Union for ending the Berlin crisis and making a start on German unification and control of armed forces.

Up To Soviets

Officials said proposals in this package may be bargained over separately if the Russians show a sincere interest in negotiation, which State Department authorities consider unlikely.

This was Herter's first exercise in high-level personal diplomacy as secretary of state. Dispatches from Paris reported Allied diplomats were favorably impressed with his work. The assignment was carried out somewhat in the manner of Herter's cancer-stricken predecessor, John Foster Dulles.

Appeared Relaxed

The new secretary, whose walking is impaired by arthritis, appeared relaxed despite a busy week of meetings and a long overnight flight from Paris.

Within two hours Herter had flown by helicopter to Gettysburg, Pa. There he conferred with Eisenhower on the sun porch of the President's farm home for 75 minutes, then returned to Washington.

"Both in spirit and substance," Herter said, "we reached complete agreement on a highly important Western position. This should assist us greatly in making progress at Geneva should the Soviet Union demonstrate an honest desire to negotiate."

He said he will leave again Friday for Geneva, where the Western ministers will negotiate for several weeks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko as a prelude to a possible summit conference later.

Florida Youths Held For Raping Negro Coed, 19

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Four young white Floridians, armed with a shotgun and knives snatched a 19-year-old Negro coed from her escort before daylight Saturday and took turns raping her.

They were taken into custody after a high-speed automobile chase by a Florida State University criminology student from Tallahassee who works part time as a deputy sheriff. It was his first arrest.

Joe Cooke, 21, the deputy, said the girl, a Tallahassee student at Florida A. & M. University, was bound with a belt and gagged with a baby diaper in the back seat of the men's car when he stopped it.

The four were taken to the Leon County Jail and held without bond. State Atty. William D. Hopkins said he expects to charge them with rape Monday.

In Evening Gown

The hysterical coed, who had attended a college dance Friday night and was still wearing her evening gown, was taken to a hospital where doctors placed her under sedation.

Officers said the girl, her escort and another couple were parked near a drive-in theater when the four white Floridians, who apparently had been drinking, drove up.

Deputy W. W. Slappey gave an account of the act.

The Negro youths, Thomas Butterfield and Richard Brown, both 18, and A. & M. students from Miami, were forced to kneel on the ground while the four decided which of them would take the girl, Slappey said.

Other Girl Escapes

Then the youths were ordered to drive away. The second girl, a 17-year-old whose identity was withheld, ran. The four whites made no attempt to pursue her but bundled the older girl into their automobile and sped away.

The Negro youths called police, sending Cooke on his wild chase.

The rape occurred in a wooded area several miles west of the A. & M. campus, officers said. They reported one of the four had raped the girl twice.

The four were listed as Patrick G. Scarborough, 20, Tallahasseean reported A.W.O.L. from Ft. Fisher, N.C., Air Base; William Collinsworth, 24, Tallahassee telephone company lineman; David Ervin Bagles, 18, a Tallahassee high school student; and a 16-year-old whose name was withheld as a juvenile.

The coed's name also was withheld under Florida law prohibiting identification of rape victims.

Winnie Plans Quiet, 3 Day Visit Here

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill pays another call on Washington this week, this time as a three-day personal guest of President Eisenhower.

The visit starting Monday is billed as purely personal and social. But the 84-year-old British leader doubtless will have words of advice on world affairs to pass on to his World War II associate, Eisenhower, and top U.S. officials.

It has been five years since Churchill last came here. He was still prime minister then. He stepped down the next year, but he kept his seat in Parliament and plans to run again in the next election.

Different This Time

During his 1954 call as prime minister, Churchill steered unerringly for waiting microphones, held newsmen spellbound at a jampacked luncheon in a downtown hotel and generally kept in the headlines.

This time mum is the word for the world-famous orator, at least in the advance billing. He has turned down several invitations to make speeches, including one from the National Press Club.

The cigar-smoking, brandy-sipping elder statesman has suffered several serious illnesses in recent years. Illness forced him to postpone a scheduled trip to Washington last year.

To Arrive Monday

Churchill is expected to arrive at National Airport Monday evening aboard Eisenhower's plane, the Columbine III, after a London-New York flight on a British jet transport.

He will be Eisenhower's White House guest through Wednesday. Thursday he moves to the British Embassy. Friday he flies back to New York for the weekend before returning to London. In New York his host may be another old friend, Bernard Baruch.

The only scheduled Washington events for Churchill are three stag dinners—Tuesday and Wednesday at the White House, Thursday at the Embassy.

Move Rape-Slayer To Next Parish

ALEXANDRIA, La. (AP)—A 23-year-old Negro was held in Rapides Parish (county) jail Saturday in the rape-slaying of a white housewife in adjacent Evangeline Parish Friday.

Evangeline Parish Dist. Atty. L. O. Fusilier, Ville Platte, denied the prisoner, Ora Lee Rogers of Ville Platte, was taken to Alexandria for fear he would be mobbed.

Fusilier said the 50-year-old jail at Ville Platte was insecure, "and we would transfer any dangerous prisoner to a stronger jail." Also the officers were just as close to Alexandria as they were to Ville Platte when Rogers was captured, he added.

Fusilier said Rogers made a voluntary statement admitting the knife slaying of Mrs. Lumley Guillory, 36, in her husband's general store at Reddell, 50 miles south of Alexandria. Her husband was away driving a school bus and her daughter was asleep in another room at the time.

Fusilier said Rogers would be formally charged following an inquest Monday.

Mother Kills 3 Children, Self

CONCORD, Calif. (AP) — An attractive young mother fatally shot her three children Friday night, then committed suicide.

Mrs. Barbara C. Snowden, 27, fired .38-caliber revolver bullets into the heads of the sleeping youngsters.

Robert, 4, was killed outright. Suzanne, 7, and Nancy Ann, 2, died later in a hospital.

"I dont know why she did it," sobbed Raymond Snowden, 33. "We had been having lots of quarrels and she was upset last night. But why would anyone do a thing like this?"

Snowden, a traveling salesman for an Oakland food company, said he left after a quarrel with his wife and went to a nearby store to buy some beer.

He discovered the tragedy upon his return.

Shah Of Iran Europe-Bound To Seek Wife

ROME (AP) — The Shah of Iran, still looking for an heir to his ancient throne, heads back to Europe Sunday with matrimony in mind. He has in mind the pretty daughter of Italy's last king.

The word that the Moslem Shah is definitely interested in Princess Maria Gabriella of Savoy, a Roman Catholic, and is ready to try to hurdle the religious obstacles came Saturday from an Iranian royal court spokesman in Rome.

"The marriage would be looked upon with pleasure in Iran if religious difficulties can be overcome," said the spokesman, Chodjaeddine Chafa, Iranian cultural counselor here.

Chafa said the Shah may see Princess Maria on his six-week visit to Europe. The Shah plans to spend some time in Switzerland, where Maria lives with her parents, former King Umberto II and ex-Queen Maria Jose. Maria now is visiting in Portugal with her father.

The handsome, 39-year-old Shah needs to stablize his position at home by providing a male heir to Iran's Peacock Throne.

The Shah's name has been linked romantically with the princess, but standing between them is that barrier of religion. Under Iran's constitution, the heir to the throne must be brought up as a Mosiem.

But the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano recently pointed out that if Maria Gabriella marries the Shah in the Catholic church, their children would have to be raised as Catholics.

Death Separates Husband, Wife Married 72 Years

ELIZABETHTOWN, Pa. (AP) —Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Grant were separated Saturday for the first time in 72 years of marriage, by death.

Grant, 92, died in the Masonic Home. His wife was at his side as she had been for all but his working hours since they spoke their wedding vows.

They renewed the vows on their 60th and 70th anniversaries. The latter ceremony was performed by a son, the Rev. Charles Grant, of St. Paul, Minn.

Their constant companionship began with courtship. On his 70th anniversary, Grant said he couldn't recall how long the courtship lasted but "it was long enough."

As young married people they worked side by side in a cigar factory. Later, Grant became custodian of schools in the nearby Reamstown area and was, of necessity, separated from his wife when he went to work.

He said in an interview that other than on those occasions he couldn't recall having been away from Mrs. Grant.

He acknowledged quarrels with his wife, asserting, "They will come. One person must give in."

The couple had gone to a convalescent home together and when Grant was transferred to the Masonic Home last Tuesday she went with him.

Says Parker Case Affects Politics

WASHINGTON (AP)—The kidnaping "and almost certain lynching" of a Negro last week in Mississippi makes it almost certain that no Southerner can get on the national Democratic ticket in 1960, a Negro leader said Saturday night.

Roy Wilkins, New York, executive secretary of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said: "It could have some effect on Democratic party fortunes in 1960. It bodes no good for Republicans who collaborate with lynch land. And it might possibly become one more crowbar with which to dislodge the seniority system of committee chairmanships in Congress."

GODFREY REPORTED AS DOING WELL

NEW YORK (AP)—Arthur Godfrey was reported making satisfactory progress Saturday from his lung cancer operation and was able to get out of bed for short periods.

The radio and television star, 55 years old, was operated on Thursday. Surgeons removed part of his left lung.

A bulletin issued at Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center Saturday morning said he had spent a comfortable night and that his condition "continues to be excellent."

Castro Seeks Aid To Latin America

Melquist Found Guilty; Jury Asks 99 Years

WHEATON, Ill. (AP)—Charles Melquist Saturday was found guilty of the Sept. 22 slaying of Bonnie Leigh Scott.

The Du Page County Circuit Court jury verdict called for 99 years in prison.

The verdict came the day before Melquist was to observe his 22nd birthday.

The jury, made up of eight men and four women, deliberated 2½ hours before returning the verdict.

Melquist was charged with murdering the 15-year-old blonde high school girl and dumping her nude body in a forest preserve west of Chicago.

Melquist maintained throughout the trial that Bonnie Leigh regarded him "as just a big brother."

Defense Atty. Robert J. McDonnell immediately filed a motion for a new trial. That motion was set for hearing May 22 by Judge Mel Abrahamson, who presided at the trial.

Jury foreman John Jenkins, a television engineer of Westmont, said the jury took four ballots. Two not guilty votes were cast on the first ballot, he said.

No one on the jury wanted the death penalty, he added.

Jenkins said the jury felt Melquist's confessions were too detailed to have been extracted by force or brainwashing as charged by the defense.

State's Atty. Jack E. Bowers, who asked for the death penalty, said: "I am satisfied with the verdict."

Melquists' parents, who attended all sessions of the trial, were not on hand in the nearly empty courtroom when the jury returned its verdict.

A passing train whistled loudly as the verdict was read.

Melquist refused to talk to reporters following the verdict, which he appeared to take calmly.

"See my lawyer," he said.

Earlsboro, Okla., Once Boom Town, Files As Bankrupt

EARLSBORO, Okla. (AP)—This little agriculture town, callused to periods of boom and bust, is broke again but not out.

It became a roaring oil town in 1926 when a 10,000-barrel-per-day wildcat oiler gushed in southeast of town.

In a two-month period the population—now less than 300 — increased from 250 to 7,500. Earlsboro was considered one of the wildest boom towns of the West.

Lots that had sold for less than $100 soared to nearly $4,000. Others brought as much as $10,000. The trouble of today was born during this period of extravaganza.

Residents approved $225,000 in bonds for water and sewer works. Three years later the central Oklahoma town's prosperity bubble popped.

Oil proration became law; the depression years came and citizens left. The water system quit working because of pollution and there were no funds for repairs.

The town's 100-room hotel, at one time the young state's fanciest, was abandoned. Practically the only thing left was the $225,000 in bonds which came due in 1938. New 20-year refunding bonds were issued for the old.

Thermometer Hits 90 In Chicago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Spring's first really warm day, at least in northern parts of the state, saw the mercury touch 90 at Chicago.

The Weather Bureau was ready for the occasion with its discomfort index— a calculation based upon temperature and relative humidity—which reached 78 in Chicago at 2 p.m.

That meant, the forecasters said, that half of the people outdoors were feeling uncomfortable. At 79, everybody feels some discomfort, but things can get worse. At 80 the discomfort gets more acute.

And, if the index gets to 86—under new federal regulations—supervisors in government offices are authorized to call off work for the day.

Two o'clock temperatures elsewhere in the state were in the high 80s. They included Joliet 89; Rockford, Springfield and Bradford, near Peoria, 87; Moline and Vandalia 85. Cloudiness over southern Illinois held down the mercury somewhat.

Thunderstorms Saturday night and Sunday were the forecast, with more temperatures in the 80s Sunday.

Freighter, Twice Sunk In WWII, Explodes

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—The battle-scarred freighter Fernglf, sunk twice by the Germans in World War II and each time refloated, exploded into an inferno of burning oil at the entrance to Vancouver Harbor Friday night.

Six members of the 38-man crew and a Canadian Navy fireman were injured. The unexplained blast shook the 7,500-ton ship at 4:25 p.m. She was bound for the nearby Fraser River to add to her cargo of 800,000 board feet of lumber.

Capt. William Archer of the Norwegian freighter was bitterly critical of delay in rescue efforts.

"I sent an SOS for a fireboat and doctors as soon as the explosion occurred and we were told by the city that we were outside limits," he said. "More than an hour later we were told a fireboat and a doctor were coming. We never saw a fireboat. A helicopter circled but did not land.

"I can't imagine anyone refusing to send a fireboat. For an hour the men had no treatment except from me. I kept shoving morphine into them."

Seconds after the explosion shook the vessel's engine room, burning oil poured from a ruptured bunker tank holding some 4,000 gallons of fuel. Residents in a half-mile area of West Vancouver were asked to evacuate homes as a greater explosion was feared. This danger abated and an armada of small boats took off the survivors.

A 17-man Navy fire-fighting crew, clothed in thick asbestos suits were lowered into the Fernbulf's burning hold and engine room. One suffered slight burns before the fire was controlled.

Asserts U.S. Should Help Hemisphere

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Cuba's Fidel Castro called Saturday for vastly greater sacrifices by the United States to bolster the economies of Latin American countries.

In effect, he urged a Marshall Plan for Latin America to prevent social upheavals which he said might bring Communist dictatorships.

The bearded Cuban Premier, who flew here Friday after visits to the United States, Canada and Brazil, spoke to the Committee of 21. This is the economic branch of the Organization of American States which opened a conference here Tuesday.

Applauded, Praised

Castro rocked the usually sedate conference by his blunt hour and 20-minute speech. He was frequently applauded and at the end was praised by many delegates.

Fervently, he declared the United States had made great sacrifices to help restore Europe after the war and to aid nations of the Middle East. Now, he said, the United States must devote similar sacrifices to bring economic well-being to the Western Hemisphere.

Not Enough Help

Speaking with a daring not voiced by other delegates here, he declared United States help to Latin America is not sufficient.

His solution, he said, was the only one which could spark economic growth and provide better living conditions for Latin nations of the hemisphere.

This was the strongest attack heard here on the position of the United States, which already has expressed itself as opposed to going beyond its present aid commitments in this hemisphere.

Ike Plays Golf, Watches Derby

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP) — President Eisenhower played 18 holes of golf and then returned to his country home Saturday to watch the Kentucky Derby on television.

Eisenhower toured the Gettysburg Country Club course during the afternoon after conferring for 75 minutes earlier in the day with Secretary of State Christian A. Herter.

Eisenhower golfed with retired Brig. Gen. Arthur S. Nevins and Washington businessman George E. Allen, both old friends who have farm homes near the President's place.

Eisenhower plans to return to Washington Sunday evening.

ENJOYS ATMOSPHERE, LIGHTENS THE COST

LONDON (AP) — The bobbies finally decided to do something Saturday about the big, handsome trailer parked in swanky Mayfair near a fashionable club.

They knocked on the door and asked the occupant what he was up to. George Henry Lee had just got out of bed. "I live here," he snapped.

In court, Lee said he was a member of the nearby club but couldn't afford its room dues. So he used the trailer and went to the club to wash, shave, and eat.

The court fined him 3 pounds—$8.40—for obstructing a public highway.

Republicans Say Tax Laws Kill Incentive

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. (AP)—Republican policy shapers Saturday agreed that some of the nation's tax laws are killing incentive.

Their attitude was reported by Charles H. Percy, chairman of Republican Committee on Program and Progress.

The group has been assigned to the task of spelling out the party's long-range goals. Members are in the midst of a three-day series of sessions.

Percy, at a news conference that followed a discussion of economic policies, said there seemed to be a general recognition that tax laws "have grown up from a hodgepodge."

It seemed to be the consensus, he added, that in many respects the present tax structure is "killin the very incentives which are the foundations of our whole economy."

Percy also told newsmen the group considered the question of whether a political party could base its whole program on political opinion.

Principles Required

Members seemed to fee, he said, that a government should be guided by principles as well as popular feeling.

He cited, as an example, the demobilization following World War II. He said rapid demobilization was "disastrous" in the sense that it led to Communist expansion.

Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois spoke for positive leadership at a dinner meeting of the Republican planners.

Stratton, a Republican who has been mentioned as a possible vice presidential nominee, also favored political breadth.

Must Exert Leadership

"Our heritage is too abundant to belong totally to a single group," he said. "Our economy is much too diverse to nourish only a particular segment.

"We cannot afford to allow ourselves to be maneuvered into the position of being the party of inaction, but must be prepared to exert positive leadership in meeting new governmental responsibility."

The dinner was in the Kenilworth home of Percy, head of a camera firm in Chicago.

Invaders From Cuba Surrender In Panama

PANAMA (AP)—About 80 discouraged Cubans who scared Panama with an invasion were lodged Saturday in the same jail that recently held Britain's famed ballerina, Dame Margot Fonteyn. After questioning, they probably will be deported.

The Cubans, who meekly surrendered their arms without firing a shot, were brought to Panama City in eight heavily guarded buses late Friday from their invasion beachhead at Nombre de Dios as an unruly crowd demonstrated around the Brazilian Embassy here.

The crowd was demanding that the embassy hand over Roberto Arias, Dame Margot's prominent Panamanian husband. He has been accused by the government of attempting to start a rebellion with the aid of the Cubans.

Arias, a political foe of President Ernesto de la Guardia, has taken refuge in the embassy. Dame Margot was arrested April 20 and held 24 hours for questioning about her husband's suspected revolutionary activity.

The unruly crowd around the embassy shot off fireworks, shouted, honked automobile horns, and set up floodlights. But armed police surrounded the embassy, and no disorders developed.

By contrast a crowd of several hundred silently watched the Cuban captives as they entered Panama's jail.

The government said 87, including one woman, had surrendered at Nombre de Dios, a Caribbean coastal village without a road link to the outside world.

The unshaven Cubans stacked their arms in the old post office and marched aboard landing craft while singing the songs of Fidel Castro's Cuban revolution. The townspeople, many of whom had welcomed the invaders, stood along the streets lined with coconut and banana trees and tropical flowers. Some of the girls wept at the Cubans' departure.

'What Is Charm? Ask Girl Scouts

Members of the senior girl scout troop Number 1, have found the subject of charm to be a very broad and interesting one. These teen-age girl scouts have just concluded a six-week charm school program conducted by professionally trained people and community leaders.

Members of the troop are pictured, listening to Mrs. Ralph Sullivan speak on "Keys to General Charm."

Row two, Charlotte Crocker, Pati Mosley, Georgiana Coats, Marsha Fawkes.

Row three, Janet Rowe, Jean Kent, Beverly Hess and Connie Mathews.

Since the word charm is easier to dissect than define, the girls found the various demonstrations and lectures most helpful. The question and answer periods, when girls could ask about their own individual problems, proved highly popular.

The various volunteer instructors and their (charming) subjects were Mrs. Edna Haigh, the Haigh Shop, "The Bandbox Look."

Donald Miller, Dale Carnegie representative, "Speaking Confidently;" Mrs. Emma Tays, Merle Norman Cosmetic Studio, "Charming of Face."

Mrs. Jim Nevius, Flamingo Beauty Salon, "Your Crowning Glory;" Mrs. Louise Bruyn, "Charming of Grace;" Mrs. Sullivan, president of the Illinois Prairie Girl Scout Council.

Troop leader is Mrs. Richard Rowe, Jr., Mrs. John Newcomb is assistant leader and Mrs. Robert Caldwell organized the charm sessions.

Name Oklahoma School After White Hall Man

WHITE HALL—Muskogee, Okla. will have an elementary school built in the south east part of the city named the Grant Foreman School, as a memorial to Grant Foreman, son of the late Dr. A. D. Foreman of this city.

The school will be built with funds raised by a five-mill tax voted this spring by Muskogee school district, and a grant from the federal government, and is to cost about a third of a million dollars.

The school board asked for suggestions in naming the school with only one other name the late Grant Foreman and the late Rev. Theodore Brewer, with the board finally making the choice.

Grant Foreman was graduated from the local high school with the class of 1887, shortly after which time he moved to Oklahoma. He was the author of many books dealing with the Oklahoma Indians and Oklahoma history and his widow, Mrs. Carolyn Foreman, has expressed gratitude for the memorial to her husband.

As I See It

by E. W. BROWN

Wonder what ever happened to that idea about putting on a special radio program out of Washington? It was supposed to be a sort of star-studded amateur hour. The contestants were to be V.I.Ps . . . important government figures. This was not expected to kill radio, or even cripple it too much . . . because from what we hear there is a lot of real talent along the banks of the Potomac.

There are singers, dancers, gag men (easy there), instrumentalists and groups that can harmonize on anything . . . or most anything. The proceeds would go to charity . . . which is mighty charitable. The show ought to be ready to go on the road any day now. Guess the VIPs are just following that old quip . . . "To air is human."

A top ranking Army General says, "In picking men for top secret work the Government should be careful as a bachelor shopping for a bride." Oh, we ought to be more careful than that! When you bring your car to us for servicing, you can be sure that our mechanics are as careful about keeping your upholstery clean and grease-free as they are about doing an expert mechanical job. We take pride in the work of our service department. Drive your car in for any needed repairs and you'll see why. E. W. Brown, 406 South Main. Ph. CH 5-4333.

Musical Program Given At Last PTA Meeting

The final PTA meeting of the year was held at Franklin elementary school, Jacksonville, April 30, at 7:15 p.m. in the school auditorium.

A capacity crowd enjoyed a musical program under the direction of Rayburn Pierce and O. A. Schuette, featuring strings and band students from the 5th and 6th grades with tonette selections and songs by all 4th graders.

Demonstrations of physical fitness tests given in physical education classes were in charge of Mrs. Rosemary Blazier.

The president, Mrs. Cline, gave a brief report on the PTA convention held in Chicago in April. She also reported on the April 22 meeting of the Franklin PTA executive board.

Mrs. Ernest Chumley reported that a committee met with Mr. Hockensmith to select summer movies for the children, a project which has been sponsored by the PTA Jacksonville Council for the past several years.

The group voted to buy built-in book shelves for the classrooms and also a Swedish gym for the playground within the next few months.

The resignation of the secretary, Mrs. Alex Jones, who is moving with her family to Indianapolis, was received with regret. The new secretary elected was Mrs. Charles Brittin.

Officers for the coming year were installed by Mrs. Ernest Chumley, council president as follows:

Mrs. Cecil Cline, president; Mrs. Hugh Bradshaw, vice president; Mrs. Charles Brittin, secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Morris, treasurer.

An Honorary Life Membership in the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers was given to Mrs. Dick Minor by Mrs. Cline, in recognition of her outstanding service in PTA work, and other civic projects.

A Life Membership pin was presented to Miss Grace Fitch, principal, who received the Life Membership Award last year.

Following the meeting refreshments were served in the cafeteria by the parents of Mrs. Hollowell's, Miss Symons', and Mrs. Omundson's rooms.

FIREWATER FAILS TO QUENCH THIRST OF INDIAN MAID

JERSEYVILLE—Jerseyville police officers were called to a residence near the eastern city limits early Wednesday morning to arrest an Indian who had been imbibing too much "firewater."

The Indian, 37 year old woman of a rural area of Michigan, told officers that she had accompanied a "hillbilly" to the Missouri Ozarks in the vicinity of Hayti, Mo., for a visit there and was enroute to her home in Michigan, when local officers arrested her at the residence where she was creating a disturbance.

She entered a plea of guilty before Justice Thatcher to a disorderly conduct charge and was fined $100 and costs. She told officials that she had been drinking wine. She claimed to be a full blood Pottawatamie.

Immunizations Announced For Calhoun County

HARDIN—The final round of immunizations and the few remaining health examinations for beginners, 4th and 8th graders in the Unit 40 school system will be given on Thursday, May 14 at Hardin and on Friday, May 15, at Kampsville. Programs will start promptly at 9 a.m., and will close as soon as possible.

It is expected that one doctor will be able to take care of each of the programs and no oculist or dentist will be present. Miss Florence Buchanan, regional nurse, will be present both days to assist the doctor.

The office of the superintendent of Unit 40 is urging all parents who will have children in the first, fifth or ninth grade next fall, and who have not done so previously, to take advantage of this program to complete health requirements for next year.

Winter, Spring Had Battle In April Weather

A summary of April weather compiled by the Norbury Sanatorium cooperative observer showed that Winter and Spring engaged in a last hand-to-hand encounter before there was a definite "break" toward summer temperatures.

Coldest day of the past month was April 11 when the mercury dropped several degrees below freezing to 29. The warmest day, April 30, saw the mercury crawl up to 84 degrees.

Sleet was a reminder of the past winter on the third.

Rainfall for the month fell a little shy of the average. The total rainfall was 3.27 inches, compared to normal of 3.32 inches. The heaviest downpour of the month was April 20 when 1.21 inches was recorded.

Average low temperature was 42.4; average high 65.7; mean for the month 50 degrees; normal mean, 52 degrees.

Clear and cloudy days were equally divided. Prevailing winds were in the northeast and northwest.

Masonic Lodge Awards Two 50 Year Jewels

MEREDOSIA — Tuesday night over fifty Masons from Bardolph, Bluffs, Beardstown, Chapin, Concord, Eldara, Exeter, Jacksonville, Murphysboro, Perry, Rushville, Versailles, Timewell, Virginia and Winchester lodges joined with the Masons of Benevolent Lodge No. 52 A. F. & A. M. to enjoy a bounteous banquet at the Meredosia grade school cafeteria. The dinner was served by the home economics class of the Meredosia-Chambersburg high school under the supervision of the teacher, Mrs. Warren Joy.

The meeting celebrated the lodge's 150th anniversary; fifty year jewels were presented to Clyde McAllister and Louis H. Yost.

After the banquet over 120 Masons, their wives and friends convened in the school gymnasium, John Stanfield, the toastmaster, opened the meeting by welcoming all visiting Masons, followed by the introductions of the Worshipful Master, Richard Clark; the speaker of the evening, Paul Stephens, R. W. D. Grand Master, from Rushville; William H. Deterding, D. D. Grand Master of the 82nd district; Thomas W. Burdick, life member, who received a 50 year jewel in March, 1954.

Everyone enjoyed the short musical program—a cornet duet by Ricky Major and Jon Pool, with piano accompaniment by Judy Major and songs by the high school boys' quartet, Jay Major, Ronnie McAllister, Rondell Sims and Mike Edlen.

Mr. Stephens presented the 50 year jewels to Mr. McAllister and Mr. Yost. Both recipients made suitable remarks of acceptance of these jewels and recalled several incidents and changes that had occurred during their membership.

Mr. Stephens reviewed the growth of Masonic Lodge No. 52 during the past 50 years. When the lodge was organized the membership was 50 and grew to 61 by the end of the first year. Present membership is over 100.

The speaker stressed and discussed four principles taught in Masonic lodges: duty to God; duty to one's neighbor; duty to himself; and duty to your government, or as a citizen.

Businessmen Make Donation For Summer Concerts

ASHLAND—The Ashland businessmen at their monthly meeting held Tuesday night, paid $100 to the Ashland school band. The money will be used by the band to help pay the expenses of the summer band concerts. A concert every other Saturday night during June and July is planned in the business district.

Directors turned in dues for 17 members totaling $292.50. Remaining members and interested new members are asked to give the annual dues to one of the directors. Twelve members pay double dues of $25 each, while the remaining members pay $12.50 each.

Efforts of planner Bassett were discussed. Several men made detailed measurements of the business district buildings and lots last weekend. At the next planning commission meeting on May 14th, Mr. Bassett will present a suggested plan for the future of the central business area. Businessmen were asked to be at this meeting to offer suggestions on the plan. The parking lots beside the fire house and behind Lillian's restaurant have been referred to Bassett so effective use of them could be included in the plan. Parking was listed as a chief problem.

Dr. E. L. Beadles reported that the three welcome signs leading into the town needed painting again. The signs were erected two years ago by the Ashland Junior Woman's club.

The Standard Station has been reopened under the management of Dick Jacoby. Several new improvements were mentioned in the business district including the complete interior remodeling being done on the Brownback-Hexter-Lockett building, formerly the W. S. Williams Jewelry store.

Now, You Can Borrow Money Anytime, Any Place with Elliott Custom-Credit . . . It's as Easy as Writing a Check!

The Elliott Custom-Credit service is one of the most modern, streamlined credit plans available in America today.

Here are the answers to your credit questions:

Q: WHAT IS THE ELLIOTT CUSTOM-CREDIT PLAN?

A: This plan is a combination revolving loan account and checking account. With credit arranged at Elliott, you can pay out any amount up to $4,800 just by writing a check.

Q: HOW CAN I START MY CUSTOM-CREDIT ACCOUNT?

A: It's easy. You can fill out the coupon below and send it to Elliott State Bank. You can call 5-5157 and we'll send you an application form. Or you can stop in the Bank and pick up your application.

Q: WHEN WILL MY ACCOUNT BE READY TO USE?

A: Once your application is approved, your account will be ready for use within a very few days.

Q: HOW WILL I USE THE ACCOUNT?

A: You may use all or part of your maximum credit for whatever you wish. Simply write a check or checks on the account just as you would on a checking account.

Q: WHAT IS MY MAXIMUM CREDIT?

A: The maximum amount of money available to you up to $4,800 is 12 times the agreed monthly payment. For example, if you pay back $10 a month, the amount available will be $120. If you pay back $400 a month, you will have a maximum of $4,800. Regular monthly payments reduce your loan and, at the same time, increase the amount of credit available to you.

Q: MAY I HAVE A JOINT ELLIOTT CUSTOM-CREDIT ACCOUNT?

A: Certainly, it's perfect for family use.

Q: HOW DO I REPAY THE ACCOUNT?

A: You make a monthly payment which is one-twelfth of your maximum agreed amount. Payments are due each month as long as your account shows a loan balance. Of course, if the amount you owe is less than your regular monthly payment, you pay the smaller.

Q: HOW DO I KEEP A RECORD OF MY ACCOUNT?

A: Elliott does that for you. Whenever you are using your account, you will receive a monthly statement showing (1) the charges to your account; (2) the payments you have made; (3) the balance due and (4) the amount remaining in the account for your use.

Q: WHEN IS MY MONTHLY PAYMENT DUE?

A: You set the time. Payments are due on the day of the month you specify in your application. A monthly statement and payment notice are sent to you about 10 days before your payment date.

Q: WHAT ABOUT CHECKS?

A: Elliott sends you a supply of checks when your application is approved. You use these in any way you wish . . . to pay bills, make major purchases, pay taxes, for vacations, anything. When your checks are presented to Elliott, the Custom-Credit loan is made to you for the amounts drawn.

Q: HOW LONG MAY I KEEP MY CUSTOMER-CREDIT ACCOUNT?

A: Your account will remain active as long as you want to use it, subject to termination provisions in the agreement, and as long as your payments are made regularly. Of course, your checks can never exceed the amount available in your account.

Kindergarten Week In Calhoun County

HARDIN — Kindergarten week for beginners who will attend the Hardin attendance center next year is being planned for next week. Parents have been notified of forms which must be filed if a child is to attend, and these may be obtained from the superintendent's office or from the primary teacher, Mrs. Chrissie Ledder. A birth record is also to be presented and lunches and two cartons of milk daily, at a cost of $1.35 are to be paid for.

Unit Superintendent L. V. Kinser stated that if children are to ride busses, and it is suggested that they do so, for the experience, they should be placed in the custody of older brothers and sisters, or friends. Parents are asked to refrain from visiting during the week, but at the close of the week, a parent-teacher conference is desirable.

The school age in Unit 40 is 6 years previous to January. Since Unit 40 does not support a kindergarten, this program is intended to acquaint the child and teacher with each other, and orient the beginner under normal school conditions rather than in the usual first-day confusion.

In other attendance centers of the unit, primary teachers will bring beginners in for a few days of orientation also, but under different circumstances, as the primary children at Hardin will be under the supervision of the family living class of the home economics department.

Business Flying A Billion Dollar Business

By RALPH MONCRIEF
NEA Staff Correspondent

DALLAS —(NEA)— If you've ever been puzzled by all those small planes when you land at one of the nation's major airports in a big commercial airliner, here's your answer: the business flyer has taken over.

At the start of 1959 there were 28,483 private planes in the U.S. being used primarily for business. More than 1,000 of them were multi-engined craft seating nine or more persons in their plush interiors. In addition, there are some 10,000 planes used partially for business and partially for pleasure.

When you tote these up against the 1,750 planes flying the scheduled domsetic air routes, you get an idea of the business world's airborne traffic. It accounted for 5.3 million hours in 1958—1.5 million more hours than the scheduled airliners.

Those close to this soaring private transport system figure that in the next five years at least one billion dollars will be spent on airplanes by businessmen.

* * *

Two factors are behind this zooming growth. One dates back to 1954 when the corporate excise profit tax was lifted, making it feasible to invest in company aircraft. The second is that some far-sighted aviation enthusiasts have invested millions of dollars to provide facilities for the private fleets.

Today's flying businessman turns up for his flight at a $250,000 terminal as fine—and in some cases finer—than those provided for regular airline passengers. Some 200 million dollars has been spent for such facilities across the nation, and the operators expect to reap 1.5 billion dollars in sales of parts and service this year.

THESE ARE SOME of the business planes and a helicopter that regularly use Dallas' Love Field.

A Texas-style example is Southwest Airmotive Co. at Dallas' Love Field, America's third busiest airport.

In the past two years, despite recession, Southwest has spent four million dollars on new terminal and hangar facilities for business flying. It has 30 acres at Love Field, 12 of which are concrete ramps for transient parking, and a total investment of seven million dollars.

* * *

A business plane lands or takes off from Love Field on an average of once every five minutes. Most of them are serviced at Southwest, a 24-hour, seven-day operation centered in a two-story glass and brick terminal.

The private flight operations center is a visiting pilot's dream and provides direct communications with the airport tower, weather bureau, nearby military air bases, and even other pilots aloft.

A Doggy Hotel

Animals Traveling By Plane Have Special Airport Shelter

IDLEWILD AIRPORT in New York houses what is believed to be the only hotel in the country devoted exclusively to sheltering animals that are traveling by air. In a little more than a year of operation this unique hostelry for dogs, cats, elephants, pilated woodpeckers, civet cats, penguins, cranes, eagles, ostriches, cows, calves and flamingos has played host to 22,500 animals.

Built by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals at a cost of $275,000, the Animalport, as it is called, operates around the clock to handle its many tenants that are being transshipped here after delivery from overseas as well as from various points throughout the U. S.

The rates run from 50 cents a day for canaries, finches and other small hardbilled, seed-eating birds to $7 for mature bulls and horses.

George Bauer, the resident manager, is often found with three or four dogs following at his heels. "These are usually family pets that bark all day if they are caged," reports Bauer. "There is not a peep out of them when they can tag along with me and it is sure a lot more peaceful."

A YANK AND HIS DOG are reunited at the Animalport where the boxer had been sheltered.

Harry Grayson's SCOREBOARD

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK—(NEA)—A lot of things grate the guy who has been sincerely interested in American sports.

One is the total neglect, outside of California and Texas, of track and field and the resultant effect in the Olympics.

Another is the lack of public interest in amateur golf.

Long before this veteran observer started writing of sports, the United States Amateur golf champion was a household name—from Walter Travis at the turn of the century through the immortal Bobby Jones—names like Francis Ouimet, the caddie who walked across the street to beat the British masters, Harry Vardon and Big Ted Ray, at Brookline to win the U. S. Open and put the Royal and Ancient on page one of this country's newspapers.

After Jones, there wasn't another prominent Amateur champion until Lawson Little completed his remarkable Little Grand Slam of 1934-35, when he won the American and British Amateurs at sudden-death match play in successive years.

• • •

Ask the next sports-minded fellow you meet to name the current U.S. Amateur champion and he won't be able to tell you. Well, his name is Charles R. Coe and his captaining the Walker Cup team jet-planing to Muirfield, Scotland, for the biennial matches with Great Britain, May 15-16, prompts this piece.

Charley Coe, 35, an oil broker out of Oklahoma City, has been one of the world's great golfers for 10 years. A frail man, he was in position to win the Open in Tulsa last year and again frighten the professionals in this spring's Masters.

The striking thing about the flight to Muirfield, the famous seaside links hard by Edinburgh, is that four of the nine members of the American side are fresh out of the junior ranks. They are Jack Nicklaus, 19; Deane Beman, 21; Tommy Aaron, 22; and Ward Wettlaufer, 23. All are in college and how would you like to have four kids like them who could play baseball, football or fight like they play golf?

• • •

Nicklaus, healthy-looking crew cut Ohio State sophomore, succeeded Beman as the nation's top Junior. Recent winner of the North and South, he was the Ohio Open champion at 16. Beman, smiling University of Maryland junior, qualified for the U.S. Open at 16.

Aaron stresses the added strain being put on football, baseball and basketball talent-wise by golf. A most-sought quarterback as a Gainesville, Ga., schoolboy, this 200-pound blockbuster, concentrated on golf after matriculating at Florida, where he is a senior. He twice won the Georgia Open. Nothing disturbs Wettlaufer, who took the internationally-known Harvie Ward out of last year's U. S. Amateur. He is a senior at Hamilton College.

Ward is a member of the American side, of course. The others are Bill Hyndman, Billy Joe Patton and Dr. Frank M. Taylor.

• • •

Hyndman, 43, confined his activities to the Philadelphia area too long to become nationally prominent at an earlier age. Patton, 37, is the Morgantown, N.C., lumber broker, who scared the pros in the 1954 Masters and U.S. Open and was the first simon-pure in the '57 Open and '58 Masters. Formful Dr. Taylor, 41, hustles back to his dental practice in southern California.

A lot of superior amateurs quickly join the money ranks these days because otherwise they can't afford to play golf and abide by the Golf Association's strict enforcement of the amateur rule.

But the production line remains more fertile than ever. Overall, this country never has had so many splendid amateur golfers.

Detroit Swaps Hoeft For Lepcio, Sisler

By A. F. MAHAN JR.

DETROIT (AP)—The tailspining Detroit Tigers Saturday swapped southpaw pitcher Billy Hoeft to the Boston Red Sox for utility infielder Ted Lepcio and pitcher Dave Sisler.

Hoeft, at the time of the trade, was one of only two Detroit pitchers credited with winning a ball game this year. The Tigers went into Saturday's game with Washington at the bottom of the American League with a 2-14 record.

While Detroit obviously is desperate to come up with a winning combination, Hoeft, a 20-game winner in 1956, has spent much of the last two seasons in the managerial doghouse. His lifetime record is 74-78.

Lepcio, who has played every infield position except first base, has a big league batting average of .247. But in Detroit's Briggs Stadium he had a lusty .412 average over a six-game stretch last season and won an extra-inning game with a home run off Hoeft.

Sisler has a lifetime mark of 24-25 and was 8-9 with Boston last season. He is a son of George Sisler, one of the game's greatest hitters and first basemen and a member of the Hall of Fame.

Both Hoeft, 26, and Sisler, 27, had their winningest year in 1956. Hoeft was 20-14, Sisler 9-8. Lepcio, who will be 29 in July, had his best major league season at the plate in his first year at Boston, 1952, when he hit .263.

To make room for the two additions, Detroit sent untility infielder Ossie Alvarez to its American League farm club at Charleston, W. Va., subject to a 24-hour recall.

Tigers Fire Norman, Dykes New Manager

DETROIT (AP)—Bill Norman as fired Saturday as manager of the Detroit Tigers and Jimmy Dykes was named to succeed him.

Norman's dismissal came immediately after his team lost 15-3 to the Washington Senators. It was Detroit's third straight loss and the 15th in 17 games this season.

Norman, 48, had the job less than one year. He took over last June 10, when Jack Tighe was fired in Boston with his team in last place.

Dykes, long-time big league manager and coach, will take over the Tigers before Sunday's double header against the New York Yankees in Briggs Stadium here.

Dykes has been coaching for the Pittsburgh Pirates this season. He was a coach for the Cincinnati Redlegs of the National League in 1958 and took over that club late in the season when Birdie Tebbetts left to join the Milwaukee Braves organization as a vice president.

Patterson May Fight Four Times This Year

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Floyd Patterson's manager plans a busy 1959 schedule, calling for possibly two more heavyweight title defenses after his June 25 date with Ingemar Johansson at Yankee Stadium.

"I believe Floyd can beat anybody in the world," said Cus D'Amato. "I did not consider the Brian London fight a tuneup for Johansson any more than I consider Johansson a tuneup for the next fight. I hope to have at least three defenses this year and probably four."

Will Fight Anywhere

As usual, the evasive D'Amato refused to name names or places. He did say he would consider fighting anywhere in the world as long as conditions are favorable.

The conditions were favorable Friday night at the Indiana State Fairgrounds Coliseum, where Patterson knocked out jut-jawed London in 51 seconds of the 11th round.

Floyd rocked the sturdy Briton in the first, second and eighth before dropping him for a five-count in the tenth. The end came quickly in the 11th as London went down on his rear end and then rolled over on his side while Referee Frank Sikora counted him out.

Not A Scratch

The champ came out of the fight without a scratch. He will rest four or five days before resuming training in Summit, N.J.

"I think the fight helped me a great deal," he said. "My timing should be much better against Johansson. I will weigh about the same (182¼) or maybe two pounds more."

Knuckler Stops Athletics, 3-1, For Baltimore

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Baltimore's Hoyt Wilhelm survived a ninth inning scare Saturday and fluttered his knuckleball past Kansas City batters for a 3-1 victory.

The big right-hander limited the A's to five hits while his battery mate, big Gus Triandos, smote the winnnng blow—his fifth home run of the year with Gene Woodling on base in the fourth inning.

The blow came off Ray Herbert, who went the distance for the A's and absorbed his second defeat in three decisions. The pitching victory was Wilhelm's third without a loss.

Wilhelm used practically nothing but his dipsy-do pitch as he went into the ninth inning riding the wave of a 3-0, 3-hit shutout. But Whitey Herzog singled with one out. Dick Williams got his second hit of the game, a double to left field, and Herzog stopped at third base. Hector Lopez brought Herzog home with a sacrifice fly to right but Wilhelm ended the game by striking out his seventh victim—Rober Maris.

Coach Sy Haliczer's I.B.S.S.S. Warriors divided victories with the Missouri School for the Blind this weekend. The local school won the top honors in swimming while dropping the track meet to their Missouri foes.

The I.B.S.S.S. swimmers won by a fine margin of 41-29. Bill Hickerson, Ron Johnson and Larry Donaldson each took first places for the Warriors as well as helping the locals capture the relay events.

The visiting Missouri team walked off with the track meet downing the Warriors 53-19. The local Braille and Sight Savers picked up only two first places with the visitors getting six.

Cubs Collect All 4 Runs In First

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ernie Banks slammed a three-run first inning double and Johnny Goryl tripled him home, accounting for all Chicago's runs in a 4-3 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

The Cubs used two relievers to hold off the Phillies for the rest of the game. Rookie right-hander Joe Schaffarnoth, who took over for Dave Hillman in the fifth, got credit for the victory, his first in the National League. He lasted until the eighth, when Don Elston came in.

Gene Conley relieved Morehead and after giving up a triple to Goryl, settled down and held the Cubs to 6 hits for the rest of the game. The Phils outhit the Cubs 9-8, with Wally Post getting 3 singles and Richie Ashburn 2. Tony Taylor had 3 singles for the Cubs.

Yanks Lose 7 Out Of Last 8 Games

CLEVELAND (AP) — Southpaw Herb Score limited the New York Yankees to 6 hits Saturday in pitching the Cleveland Indians to a 5-2 victory to sweep a 2-game series with the World Champions.

The Indians also got only 6 hits off Tom Sturdivant and Jim Coates, but 3 of them were home runs—by Vic Power, Rocky Colavito and Billy Martin.

Score was wild at times, making 3 wild pitches, but was tough in the clutch. He struck out 13, including the last 2 batters he faced, in winning his second game against 1 loss.

The defeat was the seventh for the Yankees in their last eight games. The loser was Sturdivant.

Colavito's homer into the left field stands in the sixth inning with 2 men out put the Indians ahead to stay. The Tribe scored 2 more runs in the seventh on Martin's homer over the left field fence.

Jacksonville Wins Delavan Carnival

DELAVAN — After being a bridesmaid for several years, Jacksonville came through in flying colors to make it to the first place altar here Saturday in winning the annual Delavan Track Carnival with 38½ points.

Al Rosenberger's JHS thinlies had outstanding performers in beating out 19 other schools for the coveted first-place trophy. Bobby Watts was the stellar attraction for the locals in winning a pair of blue ribbons. Watts won the broad jump, 21'11¼", and set a new Carnival record in the 180 yard low hurdles with a winning time of :20.2. This also lowered Watts' school mark of :20.4 set last week.

Fred Douglass just missed tying the school record with a third place in the shot put. Douglass heaved the iron ball 47'8½", just a ½" shy of the JHS mark. Jackson won a third in the high jump by going 5'8", just three inches shy of the winning leap.

Ken Norton of the Crimsons collected a second for his 144'11½" toss in the discus. Dave Bone had a tough break in the 120 yard high hurdles. Bone was leading the field when he hit the fourth hurdle and fell. He came back however to place in the low hurdles.

Bill Gibson ran a fine mile for the Jacks in a four minute and 53 second mile, which was good enough for third place.

The Crimson 880 yard relay team composed of Mike Hudson, Chauncey Whitaker, Pierre Portee and John Sutphen garnered a third with a time of 1:37.4.

Jacksonville won the frosh soph sprint medley with Portee, Young, Stanford and Norton covering the distance in 1:43.0.

Jim Green's 1956 Carnival record in the 220 was broken by Korte of Trinity, Green's 22.2 mark bowed to the new 21.9 performance.

Reds Get Another Big Day, Bat 52 Runs In 5 Games

CINCINNATI (AP)—Frank Robinson and young Vada Pinson headed another slugging spree for Cincinnati's Reds Saturday that sealed a 16-4 trouncing of Los Angeles' Dodgers and boosted the victors into the National League's No. 3 spot.

In 5 games this week, including 4 victories, the Reds have stacked up 52 runs.

Rookie southpaw Jim O'Toole, plagued by wildness this season, lasted to the fifth inning but had to let veteran fireman Willard Schmidt finish up.

A 7-run Redleg bombing in the fourth inning gave O'Toole a 9-3 cushion, and 5 more Redleg markers in the sixth pulled the game out of Dodger reach.

Robinson collected a single-double-triple-homer cycle while Pinson boosted his runs-batted-in to 22 with a single, a double and a home run.

Liberal walks from Dodger pitchers plus a half dozen extra base hits helped Cincinnati score the 16 runs with only 13 hits.

Cardinals Drop To Pirates 2-1

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roberto Clemente singled home the winning run with one out in the ninth inning Saturday to break up a 1-1 ball game and give the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Harvey Haddix, the winning pitcher, fanned 8 Cardinals as he chalked up his second victory of the season against no defeats on a 5 hitter.

Lindy McDaniel, helped by 4 double plays, matched pitches with Haddix until he was relieved in the ninth with 1 out and 1 on. McDaniel was charged with the loss, his second against 2 wins.

The victory blow was Clemente's third hit of the game. He had stroked two doubles previously.

Smoky Burgess, Pirate catcher hit his 10th double of the season and also collected a single to make it 4 consecutive games in which he has collected 2 hits.

Boston's 14 Hits Level Sox 5-4

CHICAGO (AP) — The Boston Red Sox' 14-hit barrage, with homers by Jackie Jensen and Pete Runnels, Saturday leveled the Chicago White Sox 5-4.

Ike Delock blanked Chicago on 3 hits for 7 innings and gained his third victory against no losses. He had to be rescued in the eighth by Murray Wall.

The White Sox jolted Wall with two runs in the ninth on Bubba Phillips' double and Luis Aparicio's No. 3 homer. But Wall retired the side with the winning run on base when Del Ennis grounded out.

Chicago didn't get a man beyond second base until Nellie Fox, league-leading batter entering the game with .413, belted a triple in the eighth for his only hit in four official trips.

Boston disposed of starter Barry Latman in 3 innings with 6 hits and 3 runs. Three other hurlers followed Latman.

DETROIT (AP)—Harmon Killebrew hammered his third and fourth home runs in two days and Jim Lemon connected with the bases loaded as the Washington Senators feasted on Detroit pitching for the third day in a row and blasted the Tigers Saturday 15-3.

Roy Sievers and ex-Tiger Ron Samford of Washington also hit for the circuit. The 5 home runs were the most ever hit by a Washington club in a 9-inning game. The Senators once hit 7 in an extra inning contest against Chicago.

The Tigers fell apart in the field, committing three errors and making several base-running mistakes in tumbling to their 15th defeat in 17 games. This was Detroit's third straight loss in the club's latest losing streak.

Tomy Lee Noses Out Sword Dancer In Torrid Finish To Win Derby

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Tomy Lee, an English colt owned by wealthy Texan Fred Turner Jr., nosed out Sword Dancer after a scorching stretch battle in the Kentucky Derby. Then the huge crowd estimated at some 100,000 had to sweat out a foul claim for 17 minutes before the stewards flashed the red official sign on the infield odds board.

Tomy Lee is only the second foreign-bred horse in history to win the race. It was one of the most dramatic finishes ever seen in America's most glamorous horse race, and the scorching finish matched the weather. The temperature zoomed to 92 degrees, making it the hottest Derby Day since they began keeping such records in 1927.

Seventeen horses started in the $163,750 race, second richest of all derbies. Christopher T. Chenery's First Landing, the champion 2 year-old of 1958, finished third behind Tomy Lee and the Brookmeade Stable's Sword Dancer.

There were two and one quarter lengths between the second and third horses, while Mrs. Jacques Braunstein's Royal Orbit was fourth, another length away.

Jockey Bill Boland, who won the 1950 Derby with Middleground, lodged two foul claims against Tomy Lee.

Boland was riding Sword Dancer.

Tomy Lee's jockey was Willie Shoemaker, who was involved in the most recent Derby rhubarb two years ago. In the 1957 Derby Wee Willy misjudged the finish line aboard British-bred Gallant Man, and stood up momentarily in the saddle. Iron Liege won the race by a nose, and many observers thought the miscue cost another Texas owner the race. Gallant Man was owned by Ralph Lowe, who hails from Midland, which is also Turner's home town.

This time, however, Shoemaker, a 25-year-old national champion rider from El Paso, Tex., was on the winning side. He had won the 1955 Derby when Swaps, a California colt, upset Nashua.

Old timers said this was the longest delay in making the Derby result official, and recalled only one other claim of foul in the race which was inaugurated in 1875.

That, oddly enough, was against Omar Khayyam, in 1917. Omar Khayyam was English-bred.

Shoemaker had sent Tomy Lee to the front late in the backstretch with a little better than half a mile to travel. Sword Dancer, in fourth place and never far behind, came up on the outside to challenge on the first turn.

They hooked up midway around. That was the first place Boland said his horse was bumped. Sword Dancer went to the front near the head of the stretch with about a quarer of a mile to go. The two colts battled head and head in a furious stretch drive. Then, Boland complained, Tomy Lee drifted out in the track and bumped his horse again with about an eighth of a mile remaining. Sword Dancer still led by a head, and it seemed that Tomy Lee wouldn't last.

But Shoemaker pulled his tiring mount together, and in the final 70 yards Tomy Lee surged up again on the rail and pounded under the wire with his sleek nose the margin between the winner's share of $119,650 and second place money of $25,000.

Tomy Lee stepped the mile and quarter in 2:02 1-5 on a fast track. Whirlaway set the track record of 2:01 2-5 in winning the 1941 derby.

First Landing, with Eddie Arcaro seeking his sixth derby victory, was the slight favorite. Tomy Lee paid $9.40, $4.80 and $3.80.

Sword Dancer, a Virginia colt owned by Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane of Upperville in the Old Dominion, paid $9.00 and $6.20. First Landing was $4.00 to show.

Jerseyville, Routt Split Doubleheader

JERSEYVILLE — Pitcher Carl Crawford quelled Routt in the first game of a twin-bill here Saturday, 4-0, but the Rockets rallied in the 11th inning of the second game for a 4-3 triumph.

Crawford checked Routt on four hits, struckout eight and walked only one in administering the Rockets their third loss of the season. Larry Sellers also tossed good ball but six Rocket miscues led to his downfall. The Panther chucker also delivered with the stick in banging out a triple and a single.

With two outs in the 11th frame, Joe Cors singled and came home with the winning run on Fred Curtis' double to give Routt an even split for the day. Curtis started for the Rockets but yielded to Fitzpatrick in the fifth and Jack Lawless, who was credited with the victory, took over the mound duties in the ninth. Dunham was the loser and he whiffed eight. The Routt chuckers got 11 via the strikeout route.

Shorted Battery Causes Auto Fire

Local firemen were called to the corner of Diamond and West Morton Avenue Saturday evening at 8:15 when a battery bolt caused an automobile fire. Reports show that a 1953 Buick belonging to Ed Cisne caught fire when a battery bolt fell into the terminal block shorting out the battery and electrical wiring in the auto. The damage was minor and the actual fire was out before the firemen could arrive at the scene. No one was injured.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP) — A slight recovery on Friday ended four successive days of price declines this week in the butcher hog market as receipts for the period were among the highest for any week this year.

Both shipper and packer demand lagged behind the increased supply and the market ended the week 25 to 50 cents lower on barrows and gilts and 50 to 75 cents lower on sows.

Cattle supplies for the week were up 10 per cent from a week ago but prime steers continued scarce although prices for high choice and prime grades broke sharply on Wednesday and ended the week 50 to $1.50 lower. Other grades were mostly steady and vealers advanced as much as $2.

With offerings on the sheep market down almost 25 per cent from last week, slaughter lambs were strong to 50 cents higher for the week. Ewes were steady to weak even though only a comparatively few small lots were on sale.

Ted Kroll Forges Into Colonial Invitation Lead

By HAROLD RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Ted Kroll fought his way into the lead in the $27,300 Colonial National Invitation Golf Tournament Saturday with a 4-under par 32 on the final 9, besting Lionel Hebert by 2 strokes.

Kroll, from Sarasota, Fla., came home with a 1-over-par 71 as Hebert soared to an 8-over-par 78 under the pressure and terrific wind. Kroll will start the final round Sunday with 210 for 54 holes, Hebert has 212.

It was a day of skyrocketing scores as winds of 28 m.p.h. and gusts up to 40 swept the 7,021-yard Colonial Country Club course. The great Ben Hogan, who was bidding for the championship with 136 for 36 holes, faltered to a 7-over-par 77 and dropped 3 strokes off the pace.

The 39-year-old Kroll made his lead solid over Hebert, from Lafayette, La., with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole.

The two had come into the 18th with Hebert a stroke behind. Hebert got his par by 2-putting but the fighting Kroll went boldly for the birdie. The ball trickled into the cup and Kroll, who started the third round with 136 for 36 holes, pulled up with a gain of 7 strokes.

Hogan, the Fort Worth great who four times won this tournament, and Tommy Jacobs of Whittier, Calif., tied for third place at 213. Jacobs pulled up with a 73.

In fifth place is Fred Hawkins of El Paso, Tex., with 214 while tied for sixth are Bo Wininger of Odessa, Tex., and Don January of Denver, Colo., each with 215.

Only two players were able to shoot under par—Cary Middlecoff of Hollywood, Fla., and Arnold Palmer of Ligonier, Pa. — but it didn't do them a lot of good. Palmer was able to go into a tie for eighth at 216 with his 69. Middlecoff was at 221 with his 69.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—A heavy volume of grain futures trading this week virtually canceled out all gains and losses of last week on the Board of Trade except in wheat.

Prices swung over a broad range early in the week but held comparatively steady thereafter in most pits while May wheat remained in steady decline until Friday. By that time it had skidded a total of 18 cents a bushel in four weeks. Once it slipped to within three cents of a new low price for the crop year.

With commercial demand very slow or absent, trade interest centered more and more on evening up commitments in the May contracts. There was some bullish sentiment in corn, rye and soybeans especially but small to moderate price bulges on short covering found willing sellers where profits could be made by liquidation.

As is usually the case when a contract approaches maturity on the board, prices of the nearby contract are influenced mainly by the necessity to even up commitments. Normally, only a small percentage of open interests in the contracts ever are settled by actual grain changing hands.

Wheat closed the week ¼-4¾ cents a bushel lower with the extreme setback on May at $1.93¾-⅞; corn ⅜-1 cent higher, May $1.25⅜; oats ⅝-1⅜ higher, May 66⅞-¾; rye 2¾ higher to ¼ lower, May $1.40¼-40, and soybeans ¼ lower to ¼ higher, May $2.28⅞-29.

I.C. Places In Harris Meet

ST. LOUIS—Lincoln University of Jefferson City dominated the 4th annual Harris Invitational track and field meet here Saturday. Coach Mason Holmes' Blueboys collected 14½ points with sparkplug Gary Turpin accounting for 10 of the tallies.

Turpin earned a third in the broad jump with a 20'10" leap and bagged a fourth in the pole vault with a 11'9" height. Holmes claims that Turpin's 22'7" broad jump mark in the Rose Poly relays last week was one of the outstanding feats of the Illinois College track season.

Dick Orendorff captured a fifth in the 440 in the time of 52.4 to add two points to the IC total. Jim Green ran the 220 in 23.4 to capture a sixth place. Ron Ladley also finished sixth in the shot put with a mark of 40 feet.

The mile relay team composed of Don Berndt, Dave Coomber, Glenn Beemer and Dick Orendorff placed fifth by stepping off the distance in three minutes and 44 seconds.

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS INJURED FRIDAY NEAR MEREDOSIA

Delmar E. Hoots, 21, 747 West Walnut, driver, and Jerry Lee McVey, 15, 903 West Chambers, a passenger, were admitted as patients at Passavant hospital Friday night shortly after an accident near the junction of Routes 100-104 (Meredosia Hill) about 5:30 p.m.

Both riders remained at the hospital Friday night for X-rays and further tests Saturday. Hoots was released after the tests. It was determined, however, that McVey has a fractured leg and will be hospitalized for some time.

According to reports, a pick-up truck driven by Ray H. Quarterly Profits Up But Stock Mart Sags

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite impressive corporate earnings reports for the first quarter the stock market sagged moderately this week.

It was the first weekly decline in three weeks.

Brokers regarded the performance as further consolidation of the market's most recent advance to record highs which topped out in the prior week. Some of the biggest gainers were subjected to a degree of profit taking which they could well afford.

Meanwhile, as April came to an end it was estimated that about nine billion dollars was added to the quoted value of stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange, based on the rise in The Associated Press average during the month.

Largest Since 1930

Volume for April was 75,836,960 shares, the largest for any April since 1930 when 111,041,000 shares changed hands.

During the month, solid gains were made by motors, chemicals, electrical equipments, steels and drugs. Aircrafts were lower. Coppers and oils were mixed.

In the week just ended, the AP 60-stock average dipped 70 cents to $227.20.

In the midst of profit taking and switching to consolidate gains of the latest bullish drive, the interest of traders still lay in the so-called "imagination" stocks represented by electronics, rocket fuels and some photographic issues.

The week's volume was 17,775,705 shares compared with 17,788,350 in the previous week.

Bonds Slide Again

U.S. Government and corporate bonds declined again this week. The government market showed signs Friday of halting the month-long slide which plunged prices to their lowest levels in more than a quarter-century.

All sectors of the corporate market, except foreign bonds, were at 1959 lows. Down sharply were industrials and utilities, followed by rails and investment quality issues. Foreign bonds posted a slight advance. Trading totaled $29,587,500 par value for the week, down from $30,184,000 last week.

The radio blamed the United Arab Republic, saying it had sent in foreigners in cooperation with "American imperialism."

Siebert gave up seven hits and went the distance to gain his second Big Ten triumph against no defeats in the opener. Bruckbauer won his third straight without defeat in limiting the Wildcats to five hits in the second game.

Minnesota sent 12 men to bat in the big fourth inning and had four hits and three walks. Two Northwestern errors helped the Gopher cause.

Downstate Prep Notes

Willard Larson recently suffered a slight coronary thrombosis in his home in Skokie and he is a teacher at Niles high school. He took Collinsville to third in the "Sweet 16 Tourney" in 1937 and tutored Canton to fourth place in 1941 at Champaign. That was the last time Canton high has placed in the State finals as only four teams competed in the State classic that year.

Ron Patterson, soph standout at Farmington high, has pitched his second no hitter in his last two outings with a 11-1 win over Tremont high in a five inning Illio loop game Tuesday. He hurled 11 innings of hitless ball in a game last week against Morton that was called by darkness. Patterson lost his shutout against Tremont in the fifth inning when he ran into a siege of wildness, walking three and hitting one player.

Coach John Thiel of Galesburg's third place Silver Streaks in the 1959 State basketball tourney has decided to stay as cage mentor at the Knox County high school. 70 YEARS OF SERVICE

ARTHUR G. CODY C. A. JOHNSON

Two Jacksonville men who have faithfully served the Salvation Army as advisory board members for a total of over 70 years will be honored with life membership certificates next Sunday, May 10. The ceremony will be held at the new Salvation Army post on West Douglas avenue, beginning at 3 p.m., and all friends are invited to attend.

"Their years of faithful service," says Major Henri Servais, "is considered of sufficient importance to acquire the visit of the Central Illinois Divisional Commander, Brig. Birger Justvig of Peoria, to make a special trip here for the presentation.

"It is especially recalled that Mr. C. A. Johnson and Mr. Arthur G. Cody were active during the most trying and difficult days of Salvation Army operations here."

The May 10 ceremony is sponsored by the advisory committee, which is headed by Lewis W. Sims.

"This presentation has a two-fold purpose," Sims asserts. "It will recognize these two men who have given so much of their time to the Army and will also observe the fact that the Salvation Army is beginning its 70th year of service in this community. In checking the records it was found that Capt. G. R. Baker came to Jacksonville in 1889 to open a corps in this area, and ever since that day the blue and red banner has flown next to the Stars and Stripes in our fine city.

"A special invitation is herewith extended to the public to join in this commemorative service."

In his report to the board Major Servais noted that 41 meetings were held at the Salvation Army post last month, with an attendance of 1,548. Transients were given 63 meals and 105 gallons of gasoline to help them on their way. Locally, six emergency grocery orders were given and 680 garments and 148 pairs of shoes were distributed. The Major made 92 home visits and had 61 office interviews.

FOR THE LAST TIME . . .

William Buckley, veteran Scott County mail carrier, hangs up his old mail bag for the last time as he retires from active duty after 45 years of service. Buckley is a familiar figure among residents of Scott County where he has delivered mail since he began his career on June 1, 1914.

Mr. Buckley was feted Thursday evening at a dinner held at Hotel Winchester in honor of his retirement. He was honored with a certificate of service from Arthur E. Summerfield, Postmaster General of the United States. The presentation was made by S. M. Harris, field service officer, of Springfield.

The citation commends Buckley for "devotion to duty" and extends a "cordial expression of esteem from co-workers." Richard Lashmett, Winchester postmaster, presided at the dinner.

Mr. Buckley resides on South Broadway Street in Winchester.

Schedule Climax To 'Mental Health Week' Program 12:30 - 4:30

Residents of Jacksonville and surrounding area will have an opportunity to visit the Jacksonville State Hospital this afternoon between the hours of 12:30 and 4:30 p.m. and receive an inside view of many of the wards and other areas throughout the spacious grounds.

Dr. Joseph Marcovitch, superintendent, and the employees of the State institution have issued a cordial invitation to the public to visit the hospital and see the modern methods of treatment used in patient rehabilitation.

Guided tours starting at the Veterans' Diagnostic Building, just off Morton avenue on South Diamond, will be conducted through the grounds and buildings. Visitors will travel "at their own speed" while on the tour. Competent staff members will be on hand to explain all of the latest techniques in detail. Open house today marks the eleventh such observance at the local hospital.

"Operation Friendship"

Many volunteers, both individuals and groups from civic organizations, cooperate throughout the year in "operation friendship" to help patients become adjusted in preparation to returning home.

Through intensive study and practical application, the staff and volunteers are making great strides in the care and treatment of the mentally ill.

Through operation friendship and the open house this afternoon, progress is being made in dispelling the fears and confusions of the public concerning mental illness and mental hospitals.

Mental illness is like any other illness—it can happen to you. The prevention and rehabilitation of the mentally ill is the responsibility of everyone. We are "our brother's keeper."

Tour Highlights

All gates except the South Diamond entrance near the Veterans' Diagnostic will be closed. All traffic and tours will start there.

Mayor Robert A. DuBois will be among the first of the visitors when he starts at 12:30 p.m. near the highly decorated gate. Dr. Marcovitch will conduct the first tour.

The State Hospital's grounds department has been doing a bit of Spring housecleaning during the past few weeks. Recent repairs include a large fish pond and fountain in front of the Main building where visitors will find water lilies and goldfish for the enjoyment of patients during the summer.

The clothing center has been redecorated and remodeled, so that any visitor entering its door would think he had stepped into a well stocked, attractive little department store downtown.

A whole wall of shelves hold shoes of several styles for both men and women. Rack after rack of attractive clothing in a wide array of colors and designs wait only to be chosen by the patient who needs to supplement his wardrobe.

Well-trained personnel aid the patient in choosing the proper clothing for his individual needs.

In cases where the clothing chosen is ill-fitting, several seamstresses and a tailor in the sewing room will alter them to fit the patient.

The opposite end of this building houses the brush and broom shop, the marking room, the upholstery shop, the cobbler shop, the awning shop and one of the Occupational Therapy units.

There are three librarys in the Jacksonville State Hospital. One in the Veteran's Diagnostic building and another the Non-Veteran patient library serving 2,000 patients which contains about 7400 volumes of all types of material. Newspapers and many magazines are available to the readers.

In the Old Diagnostic, a Medical Library containing books, magazines and other publications of a professional nature are available.

Refreshments

Refreshments will be served to visitors at the close of the tour in the gymnasium.

Nearly all of the therapy shops will be open and in operation for visitors' inspection this afternoon. Visitors will also see the laundry and bakery in operation.

The needs of more than 3,000 patients are served at the Jacksonville State Hospital.

Jaycees Choose Local Man As State Director

CHICAGO (AP) — A University of Illinois professor and a Rock Island schoolboy won top awards from the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday.

Timothy J. Nugent, 36, assistant professor of physical education at the U of I, received the annual Jaycee distinguished service award during the state convention of the group.

Nugent was honored for setting up the program that allows handicapped students, even those in wheelchairs, to go to the university, attend classes and live in dormitories.

William R. Bailey, 17, a Rock Island High School senior, was named the state's top young citizen. Young Bailey, the Jaycees said, maintained a high scholastic average and, at 140 pounds, was the lightest quarterback in the history of the school's football team. He also was cited for many school activities.

The Jaycees picked Ben Jones, Chicago insurance man, as state president.

Also elected were seven directors: George Thompson, O'Fallon; Robert Schirmer, Jacksonville; Neal Hardy, Mount Prospect; James Miner, Pekin; Farnsley Peters, Joliet; Robert Simmons, Evanston, and Ray Hoecker, Crystal Lake.

Robert L. Schirmer, 32-year-old Jacksonville resident, makes his home with his wife, Rhoda at 208 East Greenwood. He is a special agent for the Freeport Insurance Company of Freeport, Ill.

He has been active in Jaycee affairs for nearly 8 years and has served in other offices of the Jaycee staff, having held a district vice presidency. He is a member of the Salem Lutheran church.

The Schirmers have five children: Sharon, 9; Robin, 6; Melanie, 4; and James and John, 2.

Illinois Farmers Outlook Letter

CATTLE ON FEED UP 8 PERCENT IN YEAR

The cattle feeding situation is developing about as was expected earlier. Farmers in nine north-central states were feeding 4 percent more cattle on April 1 than they were feeding a year before. But farmers in the five important western feeding states were feeding 23 percent more. The 13-state total was up 8 percent over last year. Thus marketings of fed cattle apparently will be a little larger during the remainder of this year than they were in the same months last year.

The number of cattle and calves on feed by areas was as follows: nine north-central states, 4,262,000; five western states, 1,096,000; and total of 21 states reporting, 5,854,000.

Most of the increase in numbers on feed consist of cattle that were placed on feed from October 1 to the last of December. The numbers on feed for different lengths of time in the 13 states were as follows: less than three months, 2,160,000 head, up 6 percent from the year before; three to six months, 2,886,000, up 10 percent; and over six months, 196,000 head, down 5 percent.

Cattle feeders in the 13 states reported that they intend to market 13 percent of their cattle in April, 16 percent in May, 16 percent in June and 55 percent after June. This marketing pattern would be about the same as was followed last year. It would, however, bring 8 percent more cattle to market than in the previous year.

The number of cattle placed on feed in the 13 states was 4 percent larger in the January-March quarter than the year before. Most of this increase was in California.

Recent prices for cattle almost exactly duplicated year-before figures. Last year prices of choice steers slid off around $30 in March and early April to $26 in August.

Consumer buying power is greater now than it was a year ago, but it is not likely to increase any more this summer than it did in 1958. On the other hand, the supply of beef may increase more than it did last year.

This year began with beef output about equal to year-before levels. April production seems to be running a little ahead. Reports of cattle on feed, and of range conditions, suggest that the supply of beef will be moderately larger during most of the remaining months of this year than it was last year.

Shipments of stocker and feeder cattle from 10 markets during January-March totaled 432,000 head, 17 percent more than the year before. Shipments of steers numbered 260,000 head, up 14 percent; calves, 116,000 head, up 21 percent; heifers, 46,000, up 40 percent; and cows 10,000, up 25 percent.

Receipts of stocker and feeder cattle and calves in nine corn-belt states during January-March totalled over one million head, up one-fifth from corresponding year-before figures. (These total receipts include cattle obtained direct as well as those bought at public markets.)

From information now available, it appears likely that more fed cattle will be marketed during the rest of this year than in 1958, that their average weight will be heavier, and that there will be a large slaughter of cull cows and other nonfed cattle.

This Week.. at Dixon Springs

(A round-up of the week's work, activities and observations at University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in southern Illinois, prepared by H. A. Cate.)

Less than nine months ago an experimental machine was operating in the hay fields of the Dixon Springs Experiment Station, pounding out wafers. The wafers were flat and round measuring four inches across and about one inch thick. The raw material going into the machine was field-cured mixed clover and grass hay. As the hay popped out of the four-inch tube into a trailing wagon, it was tightly packed with two to three times the density of baled hay — but otherwise unchanged. Each string or strand of forage could be uncoiled its full length from the solid wafer.

Threat to Baler

Considering only the advantages of handling, storing, and shipping —paraicularly shipping because of reduced bulk—the still experimental wafering machine poses as a real threat to the baler as king of the hay fields. But, how do wafers feed?

Heifer calves weighing about 457 pounds have a mouth size that matches the rest of them. For most feeds, we think that their mouth is big enough. But, how would the calves handle a real big bite of a four-inch wafer? We had no cause to worry. These calves handled the wafers well, chewing them over and eventually breaking the wafers down to a smaller size or eventually unpacking the wafer to a tangled mass of more or less loose hay. Observations led us to believe that the calves rather enjoyed their chewing exercise. They sought out and worked over wafers in the bunk before cleaning up any loose or flaked hay.

Heifers Gain Well

Heifer gains on the wafered hay —no other feed was fed—were not exceptional, but satisfactory. In a winter test, the wafered hay produced daily gains of about 3/4 of a pound a day while baled hay produced about 1/3 of a pound daily gain. Both wafers and baled hay were fed at the rate of slightly more than 11 pounds a day to each calf. Eleven pounds was the amount put into the bunks but observation led to to believe that waste was less for the wafered hay, meaning that the amount of hay that reached the paunch of the calves as wafers was probably greater. We have no way of measuring exact consumption—but the observation of less waste plus the higher gains lead us to believe that wafer consumption was better.

Pellets Still Best

Pelleted hay is still king over wafers and baled hay. Hay similar to that fed as wafers and as bales was ground and pelleted. This product produced average daily gains of about 1¾ pounds with the average daily consumption up to more than 16 pounds. It took only 1,100 pounds of pelleted hay to make 100 pounds of calf gain. About 1,600 pounds of wafers were needed to give the same gain while calves on the baled hay needed about 3,600 pounds of hay for each 100 pounds of gain. Now—if we only had a cheaper way to pellet hay.

Dates

The wool pool will be held at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station during the week of May 25. Wool will be received on May 25.

The Illinois Purebred Sheep Producers Association will hold their annual field day and picnic on Sunday, June 7 at the Dixon Springs Experiment Station.

Soil Stewardship Week
MAY 3-10, 1959

Soil Stewardship Week begins today and will run through next Sunday.

Here in Morgan county the Soil Conservation district board is asking ministers to speak on the importance of preserving our divinely-bestowed gifts of land and water.

The district board, which serves without remuneration, has sent packets containing basic information on the worth of conservation methods to each minister. The board hopes that this information will be of value to the pastors not only during Soil Stewardship Week, but through the years to come. It suggests that the ministers give some thought to the question of total public obligation in caring for the soil.

Under the district's rules each cooperating farmer pays for the improvements to his land, but he is aided by technical assistance furnished free by the federal Soil Conservation Service. Ted Pierce is the farm planner for this county, and he is assisted by Robert Turner. This spring they have been busy aiding land owners with drainage problems, grass waterways, terracing and contour cultivation. During the summer they will devote much time in the construction of farm ponds.

Total Farm Costs Up 33% In Seven Years

Shrinking profit margins on Illinois farms are forcing farmers to produce more efficiently to hold up their incomes, a University of Illinois agricultural economist reports.

D. F. Wilken cited the records of 210 Illinois farms on which total farm costs have jumped 33 per cent since 1951. During the same time total gross income remained the same even though prices received for farm products dropped an average of 17 per cent.

These farmers have boosted their production efficiency to hold up their incomes, Wilken explained. Compared with 1951, these farmers averaged 15 per cent more milk per cow, 18 per cent more eggs per hen, 95 per cent more pounds of beef, 25 per cent more pork and 34 per cent more corn.

Returns Are Lower

He also reported that 10 years ago northern Illinois farmers averaged 65 cents on every dollar of production to pay for their labor, capital and management. During recent years this figure has dropped to about 46 cents. On 120 southern Illinois farms, records show a drop in return from 30 cents per dollar of production from 1951-53 to 20 cents in recent years.

So for every dollar of net earnings a farmer wants for family living and payment of debts, Wilken estimates that he will need $2 to $3 worth of total net sales. Total net sales are figured by deducting purchased feed and livestock from total receipts.

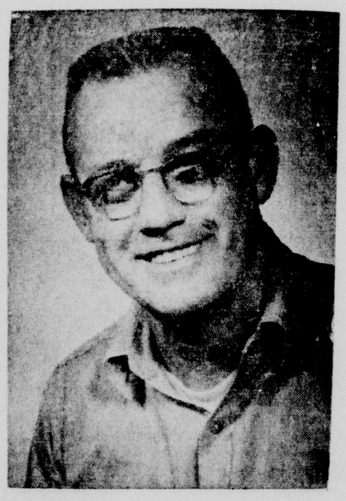

Poor and Rich

He cited records from Livingston and Ford counties showing that about one-fourth of the farms produced less than $10,000 worth of production and had net earnings of less than $3,000. On the other hand, about one-fourth had a large enough volume of business to achieve earnings of $8,000 or more.

Business volume is the key factor in producing a high standard of living for the farm family and supplying the funds to pay off debts. But increasing volume is not the solution for the inefficient farmer, he asserted.

Alaska's population is thinly scattered over its 586,400 square miles, there being about one person per 2.8 square miles.

Economists Discuss 1959 Planting Plans, Corn Or Soybeans

URBANA — Two University of Illinois Agricultural economists urge farmers to take a careful look at their corn and soybean planting plans. Here is how W. N. Thompson and T. A. Hieronymus size up this year's situation.

On March 1, farmers indicated that they would plant 12 percent more corn and 7 percent more soybeans. If they follow these intentions and get average yields, corn prices will not go above the $1.12 support rate.

Soybean production may be less this year than will be used in the year following harvest. But a large carry-over expected from the 1958 crop will keep prices from rising very far if the Commodity Credit Corporation decides to sell its stocks.

In Illinois, soybean price supports will range from about $1.91 to $1.95. Corn price supports will be close to the $1.12 national average. Soybean prices have a much better chance to rise above the loan than corn. If unfavorable weather should cause a short crop, soybean prices are much more likely to show a strong price rise than corn.

Advise Figuring

If a farm operator wants to figure out his best choice of corn and soybean acreage, the economist suggest that he take the expected yield of corn or soybeans and multiply it by the support price of $1.12 for corn and $1.92 for soybeans. If he wants to be a little more optimistic, he might use $2.00 for soybeans.

But even though corn will probably show a larger gross income per acre, this doesn't tell the whole story. Crop expenses run about $3.00 an acre higher for corn than soybeans. More labor is required and fertilizer costs are usually higher for corn. Corn yields are ofter harder hit by drouth.

If corn yields on a farm usually run about three times as high as soybean yields, a farmer would be justified in shifting to more corn. If the ratio is nearer to the state average of 2.4 or lower, he would be more justified in holding acreage about the same or shifting to more sobeans, Thompson and Hieronymus point out.

3 To 1 Ratio

For example, a farm that can produce 90 bushels of corn and only 30 bushels of beans an acre would be better off to shift to a little more corn. But if the farm usually produces about 60-bushel corn and 30-bushel bean yields, this farmer could soundly shift to a few more soybeans.

But each farmer faces certain conditions on his farm that must not be overlooked. Storage space, available machinery, labor at planting and harvest and the crops previously grown on the field must all be considered.

Looking at the farm production situation as a whole, the economists point out that corn is in more surplus trouble than soybeans. If there is not much difference to be gained in growing one over the other, the farmer would help the over-all situation by planting soybeans.

INSURE WITH ALDRIN

Corn root worms and other soil pests do their dirty work in secret, underground. They feast on tender young roots . . . and when these are destroyed, the plants tumble down in the first brisk wind.

But today you can fight back with Aldrin . . . a potent insecticide that destroys corn rootworms, wireworms, seed corn maggots, white grubs, and other cornfield soil pests.

Aldrin is easy to use. It can be applied as granules, in a spray, in the row or broadcast with liquid fertilizers, applying both at the same time. No matter how you use it, mere ounces of actual Aldrin per acre is all you need for effective control.

Make a bumper crop this season. Use Aldrin to control soil pests on your corn. Aldrin is available in both the granular and liquid form from the

A Great Religious Gathering

Jacksonville today is honored by the presence of many delegates who have come to attend the 109th annual state convention of the Disciples of Christ. Representing 783 Christian churches in Illinois, these men and women will spend several busy days in Jacksonville, attending inspirational programs, workshops, and religious services.

Central Christian church of this city is host to the state convention. Its membership has opened homes to the many visitors to make their stay more convenient and pleasant.

The state convention could have selected no place in Illinois more historically appropriate for this great reunion of consecration. Central Christian church is known as the Mother Church of its denomination of Illinois.

The church was organized in the court house that stood at the southwest corner of the public square (Central Park) on Oct. 31, 1831, with 17 members. In the same year Rev. Barton W. Stone, assisted by Rev. Josephus Hewett, was instrumental in effecting a union of the church and a similar religious organization, followers of Rev. Stone, which had formed previously. It was the first church of that body of Christians organized in Illinois and the Great Northwest.

Close ties between Jacksonville and the Disciples of Christ also have existed for some years since establishment of the Illinois Christian Home, on Grove street, where aged men and women are guests.

Jacksonville is accustomed to entertaining large gatherings of religious, educational, and civic organizations. It is our hope that delegates to the Christian convention will find Jacksonville in its most hospitable and friendly mood.

Beginning Of An Era

The water-borne commerce of the Atlantic from this time on will fall into new patterns which are bound to have broad effect on both the seaports and the inland lake cities of America. The opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway marks the change.

Nobody knows to what extent the great ports of New York, Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Norfolk and the like will suffer. It seems unlikely they would escape unscathed as ship traffic begins to flow in volume through the remarkable St. Lawrence system.

Three-fourths of the world's vessels can use the 27-foot-deep waterway channel from Montreal through to the lake ports. The new locks can take ships 75 feet wide and 730 feet long.

Before President Eisenhower and Queen Elizabeth II formally dedicate the seaway on June 26, hundreds of vessels already will have made the passage. Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Duluth and other cities will be taking on the look of real seaports.

In the fullest sense the seaway is a great dream come true. For 400 years navigators have been plagued by the rocks and rapids of the St. Lawrence. The 185-mile seaway, costing nearly 475 million dollars, takes ships past these obstacles and lifts them 225 feet from Montreal to Lake Ontario.

Altogether, vessels traveling the full lake route to the western extreme of Lake Superior will rise 602 feet above sea level and sail 2,342 miles into America's interior.

All those in both Canada and America who had a hand in this enterprise, all those who held the dream so long and so earnestly, merit from the citizens of these two countries the warmest congratulations for their efforts and their vision.

Matter of FACT

Ancient Egyptian and Roman children played with marbles before the Christian era. Samples of their playthings have been found and are preserved in the British Museum. Pebbles and nuts were also used at that time by the Romans in a game very much like marbles. In Europe marbles were played in the Middle Ages. In England the game of marbles is believed to have come from a modification of a game called "bowls," very much like bowling.

PLANE ON LOOSE

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — While several small children were watching television in Mrs. L. DeMarco's living room, a kind of unguided missile hit the side of the house, smashed two windows and came to rest in the room.

It was a remote control model airplane which eluded radio signals, leaving the owned and controller standing confused in a field a half mile away. No one was hurt, and arrangements were made to take care of damages.

COLLECTS PICTURES

KEARNY, N. J. (AP) — Mrs. Joseph Bersey collects autographs of famous men without ever having to deal with press agents or packaged pictures. And replies are prompt.

Starting with the now President Eisenhower in 1945, she has been collecting signed portraits of Army and Navy brass. Her stack includes every top general and admiral of the present day.

Manners Make Friends

If you want to continue to be invited out socially, you'll have to do your share of entertaining.

"Why should we invite them to our house if they never invite us to theirs?" is the natural reaction of others toward people who like to go out but don't like to go to the trouble of entertaining.

RIDING IN STYLE

ARLINGTON, Va. (AP) — Passengers at the Chantilly Airport for Washington, near here, will be whisked from the terminal to planes in moving "mobile lounges." Walkways no longer will be necessary. The lounges, about 15 by 60 feet, will have a passenger capacity of 80. The passenger misses the fumes and roar of jet planes, entering the lounge through a sealed connection with the terminal and leaves it through a pneumatic connection with his plane.

WASHINGTON—(NEA)— Silviu Brucan, Romanian minister to the U.S., speaks excellent English which he learned as a student in Bucharest. But when he came to this country, he says he had to learn American. And he boasts that he did this so well that when he visited the South recently, he was accused of being a damnyankee.

HANDSOME young Attorney General Bill Rogers has been frequently mentioned as one of Vice President Nixon's closest political cronies. But Rogers said flatly, "None whatever!" when a reporter asked him if he had any political ambitions himself.

Then the reporter followed this up with the question: "Would you be available for a draft as vice presidential candidate on a ticket with Nixon?"

"That's just silly," said Rogers. "But thanks for the compliment."

REPUBLICAN National Committee headquarters staff has to get to work at 8:30 a.m. now—half an hour earlier than before. Reason is that the new Republican National Chairman Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, is trying to clean up a full day's work at GOP headquarters before he goes to the Senate at noon for another full day's work there.

Chairman Morton seems to be standing the pace okay, but his staff workers are sweating despite the air conditioning.

MOST UNUSUAL thing about the big wingding that the Cuban Embassy tossed for visiting Prime Minister Fidel Castro was the horde of stag women that showed up. An unescorted woman is as rare at a diplomatic reception as a burp. But at least 70 gals crashed this one to see the youthful revolutionary.

A friend asked one of the gals, who was standing next to a Castro soldier, if she had been through the receiving line.

"I wish you hadn't mentioned that," the soldier whispered. "I have purposely not told her there is one. Once she sees my boss, she won't even know I'm around."

AFTER MOVING to the elaborate new Senate Office Building, Sen. Bob Kerr (D-Okla.) complained:

"They say this new building has the very latest of everything. But I'm afraid that means that they have discarded a few old essentials. For instance, I have looked all over the place and can't find a spittoon."

REP. SIDNEY R. YATES (D-Ill.) cracks that the space age has even changed his reaction to the frustration he sometimes feels when dealing with the State Department.

SEN. B. EVERETT JORDAN (D-N.C.) has come up with a novel way to determine when to stop eating. He places one end of a teaspoon against his stomach. If the other end reaches the edge of the table, it's time to quit. If the spoon doesn't touch, he eats until it does.

HAPPIEST people in town during the recent Daughters of the American Revolution convention were the florists. They did a land office business.

Large bouquets — of orchids, no less—decorated all the DAR dinners, receptions, luncheons and meetings. The gals, themselves, were always bedecked with corsages.

In fact, one cab driver exclaimed after delivering a DAR member to the Mayflower Hotel: "That woman is wearing so many flowers that she looks as if she just won the Preakness."

FIST OF FRIENDSHIP

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Milkman Omer Zale, 24, was the friendly type. Every afternoon as he passed a certain Phoenix intersection he waved and shouted a greeting to a man working on a street project.

One afternoon the workman jumped into a truck and followed Zale. The milkman stopped his vehicle and stepped out to say a friendly word.

"What's the idea of always shouting at me?" asked the workman. Before Zale could reply, the workman let loose with a roundhouse right. It took seven stitches to close the wound on the milkman's head.

Waddyasay, Husbands, Let Us In on the Big Secret

We had finished our luncheon dessert and were on the second cup of coffee when the talk turned from clothes to husbands.

"Why is it," mused a happy young wife, "that in any family crisis a husband hurries into his den, locks the door behind him and doesn't come out until everything is peaceful and quiet?"

"And why," asked another, "is it that when you are scurrying around trying to get ready for dinner guests a man always decides to clean his guns, put his fishing gear in order, or ransack every closet in the house looking for a jacket he hasn't worn in years?"

"And why," another wanted to know, "can't a big, strong, intelligent man do the simplest household repair job without his wife's having to stand around and hand him tools?"

"And how," asked another, "can a man who can tell you at a glance the make and model of any car on the road walk into his own living room and not even notice new curtains or a new slip cover?"

There were even more questions, but not one wife could answer any of them. So I'm asking my men readers if they have any logical explanation for the apparently illogical way that husbands act and think.

If any of you men can explain these questions which have puzzled more than one generation of women I'll be glad to publish them.

It could do a lot to make up quit wondering "Why?"

The World Today

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—There has been an unsurprising burst of harmony on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

Western diplomats in Paris Thursday, preparing to meet the Soviets May 11 in Geneva, proclaimed full agreement among themselves on what they will talk about.

Earlier this week the Soviets and their European satellites met in Warsaw and proclaimed full agreement on their side.

The trouble with both displays of harmony:

1. The thoroughly cowed Soviet satellites could hardly do anything else but agree with whatever the Soviets want to say or demand at Geneva. So this harmony was window-dressing.

2. The Western diplomats — the foreign ministers of the United States, Britain, France and West Germany — could hardly afford not to show at least an outward sign of unity before the meeting with Gromyko.

Since the Westerners have been split for months on how to handle the Soviets, this sudden manifestation of sweet reasonableness and agreements may have a large element of window-dressing in it too.

The whole thing started last Nov. 27 when Premier Nikita Khrushchev gave the Allies six months — that would make the deadline May 27 — to get their troops out of Berlin.

He also wanted peace treaties signed with East and West Germany. But West Germany is linked with the Allies; the Allies would like to see all Germany linked with them; and therefore they have called for a united Germany.

Since in any free elections the West Germans doubly outnumber the East Germans, the result would be a united Germany that was pro-West. Khrushchev has said he would never let Communist East Germany get away.

All this adds up to a handsome set of difficulties in any negotiations between the West and the Soviet Union.

Western diplomats at Paris announced they had agreed on a package plan including these points:

Allied determination to stay put in Berlin until reunification between East and West Germany is achieved and a plan for controls, inspection and limitation of armaments in central Europe is worked out.

What isn't known is what the Allies will settle for — if anything — if the Soviets reject the package plan and insist that the Allies get out of Berlin.

So far the Allies have been on the defensive, put there by Khrushchev's November demands. And so far they haven't been able to think up anything to put him on the defensive. Up to now, therefore, the advantage has been all his.

Since the Geneva meeting later this month is supposed to be a preliminary and stage-setter for a summit meeting later, quite possibly both sides, while agreeing on nothing, will be on their good behavior.

A summit meeting would seem impossible if the foreign ministers at Geneva began the usual East-West program of mutual recriminations and denunciations.

In Hollywood

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Can the space jockeys shoot down the gunslingers?

Paramount TV boss Jim Schulke thinks so. He is masterminding the film company's break into the TV filming business with a new hour show called Destination Space. It's Schulke's opinion that the next big cycle in home-screen entertainment will be space exploration.

Apparently CBS shares his faith. The network is backing the series and scheduling it Tuesday nights. The opposition: Laramie on NBC and Bronco-Sugarfoot on ABC. So Americans will have a clear-cut decision to make on whether they like their spaces wide open — or outer.

Destination Space is in good hands. The actors include John Agar and Cecil Kellaway. Director of the pilot was Joseph Pevney ("Away All Boats," "Tammy and The Bachelor," "Torpedo Run").

The coproducer and writer is Rip Van Ronkel, writer of the excellent film, "Destination Moon."

"When we did the picture," he recalled, "the events were said to be at least 25 years off. That was nine years ago, and today the seven men who will make the first flight into space have been named."

Keeping up with the latest developments is his problem, for the series is aiming at authenticity. The space agencies have helped him. "But I don't want to see any classified material," he said. "What they have in planning is more fantastic than anything I can dream."

Getting plots is the main problem, he added. "We're getting good stories, and good characters too," Van Ronkel said. "The spaceman is a new type — not the hotshot pilot at all. He's a solid engineer."

Bill Sharman of the Boston Celtics is one of the best foul shooters in the history of the National Basketball Assn. He has won the foul shooting honors in six of the last seven years.

Happy Times

When You Feel Sorry for Yourself Think of Them

BY MARIE DAERR

Whenever I'm in danger of feeling sorry for myself, I remember these people I've met:

A 75-year-old blind woman who has knitted innumerable sweaters for the Red Cross, as well as dusting mitts and other items for church bazaars.

"I'm grateful that I learned to knit when I was a little girl," she told me. "It comes to me automatically. How happy I am that, in spite of not being able to see, I can do something for others who are able to see but don't have my particular skill."

A 67-year-old woman who spends part of her day in a wheel-chair, must use crutches to take even a few steps. She spends two days a week ironing clothes for a woman who has six children and an invalid mother to care for. "I can do this sitting down," she said. "Her husband brings the laundry to my home and picks it up, once a week.

"At home, I work a job exchange with my daughter and grandchildren. I iron for them, wash dishes and do other seated jobs. They do the chores that require two good feet."

An 81-year-old barber who is back on the job after recovering from an accident in which he broke his right leg in two places.

"I'll celebrate 66 years in barbering this year," he told me. "I couldn't give up now. I still bring my cane to work, but I don't use it much. I've just never been the kind to sit around and let somebody else do the work. My doctor admits he didn't think I'd make it back to my shop after my accident."

Another woman, in her 70s, who, walking with the aid of a cane and riding public buses, carries out an impressive program of visiting shut-ins. "My cane is a help in more ways than one," she reported. "If the traffic light changes as I'm halfway across the street, drivers wait and give me plenty of time to get across. I make a point of 'dining up' cheerful news items about mutual friends and interesting events. This seems to make everyone, me included, feel better."

Still another woman, victim of glaucoma, who learned to operate her sewing machine again after she became blind. She still carries on as chairman of a philanthropic sewing group, cutting out garments, stitching them, inspecting them and giving instructions to other sewers.

"I have no time to brood over my inconveniences," she said.

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

The Land of the Bible

BY WILLIAM E GILROY, D.D.

Palestine as the especial homeland of the Jews, and as the scene of Our Lord's life and ministry, is particularly what we think of when we speak of "the homeland of the Bible."

In our own time this little land, no larger than a New England state, has come into world prominence and, in a sense, into the world's problems. That prominence is comparable to its place in the ancient world and in the time of Christ. At that time, of course, the world didn't know of the greatest events then happening, which the New Testament was to bring to light and power.

Today, communication makes what is happening in Palestine immediately known, though the full import and outcome of what is happening may take years, or decades, to reveal.

Just now, one decade is of incredible importance. It is the 10 years since the republic of Israel was established. The building and progress of those 10 years constitute a triumph of Jews in action comparable with the greatest attainment and vision in the long history of Israel.

Desert places have bloomed. Great business and industrial developments have brought modern civilization alongside an age-old environment.

Perhaps greatest of all is the vision and courage with which the new state has opened its coast and borders to the influx of amazing numbers of refugees otherwise without hope.

All this is being accomplished in the face of much hostility, actual warfare, ever-present dangers, and many difficult problems. It is possible that the end is not yet.

The immense, surrounding world is hostile, but it is my belief that the sheer courage, determination and efficiency of the small Israel state will in time induce more peaceful adjustments.

It might be said that what Israel has accomplished could never have been done without the financial backing in gifts and loans that has come from the U.S.A.

But the reverse side of this is that no amount of money in the world could ever have effected any such achievement without the vision, planning, skills, organizing genius, determined courage and spirit, which the leaders of Israel and its new citizens have displayed.

Perhaps some are aware that Jews themselves have been divided over the Zionism that has brought about the political state.

However this may be, some results emerging from the Jewish state are essentially religious and all to the good. I have recently observed how much the policy of Israel is to break down religious barriers and prejudices in the encouragement, without any bias, of the pilgrimages to holy places, which have been increasing greatly.

In some respects Israel might be regarded as a great achievement in a secular state, but I think its religious significance in the homeland of the Bible is not to be disregarded nor underestimated.

THOUGHTS

For it is the day of the Lord's vengeance, and the year of recompenses for the controversy of Zion.—Isaiah 34.8.

Illinois Farmers Find Fertilizer Use Profitable

URBANA—Even though Illinois soils are some of the most naturally productive in the world, supplemental fertilizer is necessary to maintain profitable farming, according to S. R. Aldrich, University of Illinois agronomist.

He points out that Illinois farmers are now using about four times as much nitrogen and almost twice as much soluble phosphate and potash as they did in 1950. They are using 15 times as much fertilizer as they did in 1940. Unless weather interferes, he expects farmers to further increase their use of fertilizers again this year.

Fertilizer remains favorably priced among all farm costs, Aldrich says. During the last 10 years, fertilizer costs have remained almost steady, while power and machinery costs, land values and wage rates have climbed higher.

Soils tests remain one of the basic tools for choosing fertilizer treatments with greatest precision for an individual field, Aldrich emphasizes. Illinois farmers are testing as many samples each year as any other state has tested in the past 10 years.

Research on the Morrow Plots on the University of Illinois campus shows that careful farmers who have nearly level, medium-textured soils can maintain high yields in an intensive corn farming system if they fertilize liberally, Aldrich concludes.

Circleville 4-H Group Discusses Club Projects

ASHLAND—The Circleville 4-H club met at the Youth Center Wednesday night at 7:30 p.m., with Virginia Lee Aggertt presiding. The club scrapbook, the booth, and the float for the Cass 4-H fair to be held in August, was discussed by the members present. Plans were also made for the annual club out-door tour and picnic.

The boys of the club who had attended the Electrical and Concrete school, told of the work done. Barbara Thornley talked on the "Methods of Safety on the Farm." A farm talk was also given by Donald Joe Aggertt. Jimmie Depne gave a demonstration on "How To Make A Rope Halter" and Weldon DeGroot demonstrated "How Safety Reflectors Could Be Used" in many ways on the farm.

Beverly Plattner and Delores Winkelman were guests for the evening. Ronnie Plattner was the host for the meeting.

This is a cabin at Camp Piasa and it's for Jacksonville boys only—at least during the week of May 31 - June 6. This week has been set aside for Jacksonville boys only through the efforts of the local Y.M.C.A. The camp located in Marquette State Park near Grafton, Ill., is staffed by qualified workers from the Alton Y.M.C.A. who will provide the campers with a well balanced program of archery, swimming, handicraft, horseback riding, camp craft, nature lore, campfire activities and other athletic activities.

The goal for the local group is 55 campers. Total cost per camper is $20. Part or all of this fee may be earned by selling cookies which are available at the Y.M.C.A. All interested boys should contact the Y.M.C.A. for further details.

Peru Farm Girl First Exchangee To This State

URBANA—Miss Amanda Morey, 21, Pucallpa, Peru, South America, is visiting on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Marion Brucker, Wyoming, Stark county, as the first International Farm Youth Exchangee in the state this year.

One of seven children in her family, Miss Morey now works as assistant city registrar in Pucallpa. For 10 years she lived on a 25-acre farm that produced corn, rice, beans, yucca and coffee. Her trip is sponsored by the Agricultural Extension Service of Peru. From the Brucker's farm she will move to another Illinois farm on May 22.

She is the first of 12 foreign farm young people who are expected to live and work on Illinois farms as part of the IFYE program this summer.

Last year 15 exchangees from 12 foreign countries lived with an average of four Illinois farm families during their two-month stay in this state. These exchangees lived with 54 host families in 35 different Illinois counties.

BIRTHDAY PARADE

Linda Preston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn I. Preston of 808 West Lafayette, celebrated her sixth birthday, Sunday, April 19, with a party. Linda and her friends, pictured above are, left to right, Carol Ann Watts, Shirley Cruse, Linda Preston, Janet Strubbe and Kathy Cruse.

Linda and her friends played games then came the blowing out of candles on her pretty cake.

Birthday cake and ice-cream were served. Linda received many lovely gifts.

There, that's a fine start for our May Birthday Parade isn't it? And now, HAPPY BIRTHDAY to each and every one of our Birthday Marchers from all the Junior page readers and your Junior page editor!

Brave Little Rebel

By Loella Sloane Young

Synopsis: Little Emmy Lou, a girl of days just after the Civil War, is traveling from the south to the north with an older woman, Mrs. Duncan, as companion.

Chapter 5: Journey's End

"My, but Nebraska is a bare and lonely looking country so early in the spring," Emmy Lou remarked.

"Look, there, Emmy Lou," Mrs. Duncan said pointing out the window of the train, "See the little baby lambs over there? Poor, things, they always arrive so early in the spring. They must thing this is a cold world they come into."

"Oh, aren't they sweet," Emmy Lou cried, as she climbed to her knees on the seat to see the lambs better. "They are lucky, though," she giggled, "they still have their winter coats on!"

Pleasantly the hours slipped past, until finally, the conductor appeared at the door of their car, calling, "Lincoln! Lincoln! Lincoln, Nebraska! Straight ahead! Better gather your things together. We'll be in the station soon," he suggested.

Mrs. Duncan stood up, reached over her head and lifted down several packages from an overhead rack. Carefully she smoothed down her coat and straightened her hat. Emmy Lou climbed up on the seat while her clothes were set right and a large smudge of black soot was rubbed from her nose.

"Just think, Dear," Mrs. Duncan said, "soon we'll be in Lincoln. You'll meet the Culps and get ready for the next part of your trip, and I'll see my sister again after so many years."

Glad Trip's Over

"Yes," said Emmy Lou. "I'll be glad to get off this train. I feel as if I want to run and run and run. I'm so tired of having to sit still."

Now the train began to approach the outskirts of the town. Houses began to appear closer together. A woman hanging up several pieces of washing, waved as the train passed.

A boy and his dog, raced along the track, until the speeding train swiftly passed them. A wagon and team of horses paused at a crossing to allow the train to pass. At last, the train, whistle tooting, and bell clanging, chuffed into a drab railway station, an island in a sea of mud.

Mrs. Duncan and Emmy Lou gathered their belongings together and descended to the railway platform. A very discouraging sight met their eyes.

Frontier Town

Lincoln was a typical frontier town. Bare store fronts, unpainted and drab, lined the muddy unpaved streets, where horses, dogs, wagons and people hurrying to and fro, churned it into buttermilk thickness. There had been a rain, and coupled with an early spring thaw, mud, mud, mud was everywhere.

Horses strained to pull their heavy loads through the sticky goo. Drivers cracked their whips and shouted to their teams. Here and there a plank or log had been thrown into the streets to give a firmer footing for those who had to cross the streets.

It was cold and damp. Emmy Lou shivered as she drew her coat more snugly around her. Everyone seemed to be in a great hurry, and no one noticed the two strangers who stood to one side of the station platform, waiting for their baggage to be removed from the train.

After a few minutes of waiting in vain for their things to appear, Mrs. Duncan turned to Emmy Lou saying, "You stay right here and don't move. I'm going to see what has happened to our baggage." She turned and moved quickly toward the train, leaving Emmy Lou standing on the cold station platform alone.

All at once, she felt someone roughly push her bonnet forward and pull it down tightly over her eyes. Emmy Lou screamed and burst into tears of surprise and fright!

Willie And His Dog

By Mrs. Otto Dorr

Part I: Spring Cleaning

"We must start housecleaning today," Grandmother said. "You can take all the things out of the hall closet Willie; spread them on the fence to air."

Willie did not like housecleaning. Chairs and tables were on the porch, carpets were spread on the lawn, the clothesline was heavy with curtains and coverlets, even his story books were nowhere. The floors were being scrubbed.

"Don't walk there and don't go here," were the house rules while two helpers and the yard man were kept busy.

"I'll need you when the floors are dry," his Grandmother reminded him, so he sat on the front steps with his dog to watch Ira cut the worn places out of the old carpet.

At last the parlor floor was dry and Ira went to the barn for clean, new, straw to pad the floor under the new carpet.

Willie's Job

"Put on your overshoes, Willie," someone said, so he buckled them on while the great carpet was cautiously unrolled and its edges fastened neatly with carpet tacks along the walls. Wherever straw had lumped unevenly he skated this way and that until it matted smoothly to suit his grandmother.

Again the tack hammers sounded until the carpet was stretched without a hump or wrinkle anywhere on the floor. Now they could carry in the chairs and tables, hang the great portraits on the walls, put up the fresh curtains and roll down the clean shades.

"Willie, you can go out doors and close all the shutters. Sunlight must not fade that soft new carpet."

Willie did not like that room shadowy. He went to the pantry and cut an extra large slice of poundcake, that and skating on the new carpet were the good parts of housecleaning.

Little Man

By Mary Pence Claywell

To some, I may seem pretty small,
But Mother calls me, "Little Man;"
And often says, "I need you, Dear,"
And then . . . I help her all I can.

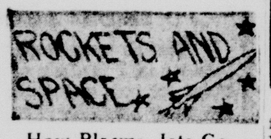

My Mother never scolds me if
I make mistakes or have to rest;
She smiles and says, "We'll try again;
I'm sure, my Dear . . . you did your best!"

My best sometimes is not so good,
But Mother says, "It won't be long
Until you beat me at this job;
You're quite a man . . . and pretty strong!"

I listen quietly when she talks
And tells me how to do a thing,
For children always have to learn,
And mothers know how to explain.

I look me over . . . and confess
I've got a few more years to go
Before I'll be a full-size man . . .
But I've got lots of time to grow.

I'm only "six" . . . but just the same,
I'll always help her all I can
Because it makes me feel so good,
When Mother calls me . . .
"Little Man!"

How Plasma Jets Go

By Walter B. Hendrickson Jr.

Electrons in certain things are always trying to get away from the crowd into something where there are less electrons. When they do they produce an electric current until both things have the same amount of electrons.

Things like Platinum and Cesium, in which the electrons can do this, are called conductors, and things like ceramics which can't, are called non-conductors.

Since the Cesium in the Stuhlinger Plasma Jet has only the number of electrons it is supposed to have it becomes positively charged like the Platinum.

Electric charges of the same type push each other away (repel each other as scientists would say). This causes the Cesium Ions (as charged atoms are called) to shoot out the nozzle producing a kick which moves the rocket forward.

To keep the Platinum from getting enough electrons, and so losing its charge, the electrons are conducted into open-ended fluorescent tubes. These tubes shoot the electrons out into the ion jet where they are reunited with the Cesium ions which again become ordinary Cesium atoms. This keeps them from hanging around and repelling other Cesium ions.

The plasma jet will only work in outer space where there is no air because fluorescent tubes work only at very low air pressures. This is why they have to be sealed up on earth.

Besides putting the fluorescent tubes out of action, the air atoms would also get mixed up in the Ionization (making ions of) the Cesium and cut down the thrust of the motor.

The ion rocket is a bit simpler in construction than the Plasma Jet. We'll tell you about the ION ROCKET next time.

C Q Radio Hams — Novice Ticket Steps

By Joseph A. Smith

GETTING STARTED

After all is said and done there is still one hobby for boys and girls of all ages that is both fun and challenging as well as a possible stepping stone to a paying job in the still young and constantly growing fields of Electronics. Also, as a hobby, it is often useful and of real service to all of us in times of disaster, etc.

To be more specific and up to date, not a single large missile or satellite goes skyward without a sizeable quantity of electronic gear inside it! So, be it strictly for fun or as a first stepping stone toward a later full time career, one of the best starting points is the Novice Ticket or beginner's amateur license.

In an earlier group of articles I covered quite briefly the way to earn your Novice Ticket; in this series I shall, in response to requests, go into more detail and suggest a possible way of home study. Likewise you would be wise to enter a Beginner's Electronics Class locally whenever possible, and supplement these classes with additional home study. One such class is available here at the local Junior High School each Monday evening; contact W9FOH for details.

Must Know Code

Many of you by now know that before you can acquire the Novice Ticket one must prove to a local qualified "Ham" that he or she can both send and receive the International Morse Code at a speed of 25 characters per minute. Then you must take a really not too difficult written test while being observed by this same examiner (any amateur who holds a valid GENERAL or higher class of radio "Ham" Ticket).

Worth The Trouble

But nothing worthwhile is gained without some real effort, practice, and study. So get started right, plan to spend at least fifteen minutes each day 6 days each week on both learning the International Morse Code as well as on the necessary theory. Studying both will also help one to properly operate an amateur station after you gain that coveted ticket.

With such honest concentrated study you should be ready to take the two tests in around two months or less! It all depends on you and how much time you can spend on the studies.

Incidently, don't be afraid to ask almost any "Ham" for help: If you're sincere, chances are you'll get it willingly. After all, he too was a beginner once!

So, before we start our home study course, round up $1.50; go to the nearest radio wholesale dealer and purchase these study aids around which subsequent articles will be based.

(1) "The Radio Amateur's License Manual," (A.R.R.L. Publishers).

(2) "How To Become A Radio Amateur," (A.R.R.L. Publishers).

(3) "Learning The Radio Telegraph Code," (A.R.R.L. Publishers).

Beginning next week we will start our "Home Study" course; meanwhile, become well acquainted with your three study books, and start rounding up parts with which an audio oscillator (for daily code practice) can be built.

Almost any "Ham" will provide a possible wiring circuit, or use one of the several examples given in the code study book.

More Magic And Stunts

By Joseph A. Smith

Did you succeed in fooling your friends last time with our stunts? Fine, then lets try these; look out for that last one, it's a real fooler!

You can fool them with this one. Get a drinking glass three fourths filled with water, a hard boiled egg, and two or three tablespoons of regular salt which has been carefully hidden from sight in a tiny package, envelope, etc.

Place the egg beside the glass of water, and ask a volunteer to float the egg; of course, he can't do this. Next SECRETLY pour in the salt, then drop the egg in the glass and presto it floats! of course salt water will float it.

This Is Easy

Now place a partially broken match (bent to a V shape) over the top of a small glass. Place a small coin such as a nickel on top of the V shaped match and challange anyone to get the coin to drop into the glass without touching either it or the match with their hands.

You can do it simply by dropping two or three drops of water on the match at the spot where it was partially broken. Water should cause the match to spread open a bit further allowing the coin to drop into the glass.

Get Two Newspapers

Next, spread out a couple of newspapers with the edge of one side near the edge of a table; then place a ruler underneath the paper.

The trick is to strike the ruler as hard as you wish, and you'll probably break the ruler and not raise the newspaper. Let several volunteers try it.

Here's A Fooler

Lastly, here's a real fooler. Get a pole and a small plastic (non-breakable) glass. Fill the glass two thirds full with water. Ask for a volunteer.

Spin some sort of story about a wonderful old trick that you are going to do; as you are doing this stand up on a chair and balance the glass filled with water against the ceiling with the pole you're holding in one hand. Step down while still balancing the glass and ask your volunteer to hold it while you get something you've forgotten.

You then hunt and hunt unsuccessfully. The joke comes when your volunteer tires and tries to let go of the balanced glass of water; he's in for a slight wetting down!

Here's hoping you have a good time with these stunts.

COTTONWOOD, WILLOW, DOGWOOD

By Rip Barnsdall

The cottonwood is one of the most widely spread trees in the United States. It can grow under almost any conditions. The tree gets its name from its cotton seed tassels.

The willow is a tree of the countryside. It usually grows along wet banks of streams. The branches filled with the long slender leaves hang gracefully over the water.

Flowering Dogwood is one of our most decorative trees. The white or pink blossoms of the dogwood are very impressive in the spring.

With The Girl Scouts

Many entries have already been received for the "Picture Your Home Frontier" art exhibit to be held in the Scout office all during the coming week. Be sure to stop in during the next five days and see these paintings, drawings and photographs of your community—and don't forget to get your entries to the office as soon as possible.

The best picture and the best photograph will be selected by a team of judges during the week and these two entries will be sent to Colorado to the National Roundup to be placed on exhibit there in July.

Mrs. Robert Hartman, Executive Director, conducted an all-day training session Wednesday at the office for members of the Board of Directors of this Council and also for committee members. The morning session was spent discussing general aspects of Girl Scouting. Mrs. Hartman gave a description of the Council set-up and introduced a plan of work with specific job descriptions. During the afternoon a film strip was shown and the financial picture was explained. A human relations talk completed the training session.

Attending were Mrs. Ralph Sullivan, Mrs. Mel Hayford, Mrs. Charles Nicholson, Mrs. Alfred Henderson, Mrs. William Gross and Mrs. Floyd Sorrill.

Cook-Out

Members of Intermediate Troop No. 75 of South Jacksonville School enjoyed a hike and cook-out last Saturday, April 25. The girls gathered at the school and walked from there to the Illinois Braille and Sightsaving School. During the hike they enjoyed a nature scavenger hunt, and an apple to eat on the way.

Their lunch was cooked over a campfire and was complemented by punch and ice water which was furnished by the I.B.S.S.S. After lunch the girls had a great deal of fun on the playground at the school and following that Mrs. Marguerite Hug, Recreation director, took them on a tour of the buildings. Mrs. Hug showed many things the children had made at the school, particularly hats and decorations which will be worn in their May festival on May 1. The girls also had the opportunity of watching some of the students rehearsing for a play in the auditorium and watching some of the girls swimming in the pool.

Two students of the school, Patsy Davison and Marilyn Gill, are members of Troop No. 75. All of the girls expressed appreciation of their visit and hope to return to visit I.B.S.S.S. again in the fall.

Visit Bakery

Brownies of Troop No. 46 last week visited the Fleming bakery on East State street as part of the series of trips they have been taking to various places of interest in the community. At the bakery they were shown the ovens with revolving trays, also the huge mixers and other equipment. Later they were served refreshments of brownies and cokes. Another recent tour was to the D.A.R. home on Duncan place where they were shown many interesting relics as well as the rooms in the home. Mrs. Drennan served them punch and cookies. The leaders, Mrs. Eldon Koehler and Mrs. Stuart Lippert, and Mrs. Everett Armstrong and Mrs. Robert Scott, troop mothers, accompanied the girls on their visits.

Parents were guests of the Brownies of Troop No. 9 of Washington school at the traditional fly-up ceremonies held Thursday night at First Presbyterian church. Ten girls took part, each giving a Girl Scout law as candles were lit and explaining for the benefit of the guests about the different skills needed to pass the tenderfoot requirements. Mrs. Philip Bradish and Mrs. Leo Beerup are the leaders of the troop. Refreshments were served by the troop mothers, Mrs. Hans Kant, Mrs. Robert Hamm and Mrs. Ed McCurdy. Mrs. Kant had baked a three-tiered cake and decorated it with miniature Girl Scouts. Lime sherbet punch and Girl Scout cookies also were served. Square dancing was enjoyed during the social hour.

Camp Plans

Members of the Camp committee met Friday in the office to plan menus for the coming camp sessions at Camp Shagbark and to make further plans for camp training for all adults who will be going to camp. Training dates are May 12 at Lions Park in White Hall, May 14 at Robin Hood club in Carrollton, May 19 at Camp Shagbark for Brownie leaders and May 21 at Camp Shagbark for Intermediate leaders. The members of the Camp committee will be on call to meet at least once a week during May.

Fly-up ceremonies for Brownie Troop No. 81 were held recently at Our Saviour's school for 21 girls. Parents and friends of the girls were guests. Some of the girls assisted in the ceremony, lighting the candles and giving the Girl Scout promise and laws; others took part in the flag ceremony and still others assisted with the refreshments and served the guests. Tables were attractively decorated with spring flowers and candles and Girl Scout napkins added a finishing touch. Mrs. T. Joe Doyle and Mrs. George Trutter, leaders, planned the fly-up ceremony; Mrs. Floyd Sorrill spoke to the girls about camp, explaining the program and registration; Mrs. William Sumpter, Mrs. Shirley Ellering and Mrs. Charles Lockman assisted by their daughters, were in charge of refreshments.

Members of the Board of Directors of this Council will hold an important meeting Tuesday, May 5, at 1:30 p.m. in the Office.

Program committee members will meet Friday morning, May 8, at 10 o'clock in the office.

Girls of Senior Troop No. 1 spent Saturday at Camp Shagbark, where they had a cook-out and enjoyed outdoor activities. Mrs. Richard Rowe, Jr., is the leader.

HEDGEHOPPING TANK BUSTERS—A new dimension has been added to battlefield warfare—a helicopter carrying a missile said to be able to kayo any known type of tank. The helicopter is France's turbojet powered Alouette II, now being produced in this country. The missile is the remote controlled, wire guided SS-11, also French-made with U.S. technical assistance. The U.S. Seventh Army in Germany is slated to receive the solid propellant missile, which can also be hand carried, dropped by parachute or fired by a soldier on the ground. Sketch below shows helicopter-missile combination in Western-style ambush and quick draw contest with a tank.

Liu Shao-chi Termed One Of Ablest Minds In All Of Red China

LIU SHAO-CHI INTERPRETIVE

Editor's Note: The writer of this sketch of Liu Shao-chi is one of the few Western newspapermen ever to interview the new president of Communist China.

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—The election of Liu Shao-chi as president of Communist China may spell bad news for the West.

It could presage a new, tougher era of Chinese communism, both at home and abroad, particularly in Asia.

The Chinese could have picked a figurehead, such as aging Marshal Chu Teh, for the presidency, held for a decade by Mao Tzetung.

Instead, they chose to give it new stature by reaching for one of the sharpest, ablest minds they could find in the Communist hierarchy.

The object is to make sure that China speaks with two strong voices-Liu's and Premier Chou En-lai's—after Mao has withdrawn from the public eye to work on the pressing problems of the party and the nation as chairman of the Chinese Communist party.

Tough And Shrewd

Liu, Mao and Chou form a relentlessly tough, shrewd team of Marxists, a match for any nation in future international horse-trading, either on the foreign minister level or at the summit.

Long a man of considerable personal mystery, Liu will emerge from the shadows of the Communist party headquarters to take a more prominent public place in China.

This is in line with his now-solidified position as heir-apparent to Mao, whose chairmanship of the party makes him still master of the world's most populous nation.

A Quiet Man

As president, Liu will become better known to the millions who only know him as a self-effacing, quiet man.

This writer first met Liu in December 1945, in the Communist cave-capital of Yenan in north China with three other Western newsmen after the end of World War II.

Dressed in a wrinkled, cloth cap and padded blue cotton uniform patched at the elbows, Liu at that time gave the impression that bordered on furtiveness, he hardly spoke above a whisper. Expressionless most of the time, a half-smile occasionally flickered around the corners of his mouth.

Tea And Watermelon Seeds

During the interview he drank green tea and munched on watermelon seeds.

He insisted then that Communist China wanted friendly relations with all the world and would give no particular preference to the Soviet Union.

The impression he left was of a not-particularly brilliant individual, but one endowed with more than the usual courage, doggedness and singleness of purpose. His toughness emerged later when in 1951 he directed a blood purge of the regime's enemies.

Often described as pro-Soviet, he has been known to criticize the Soviets. In Peiping today there is no such thing as being anti-Soviet, no matter what private disagreements anyone may have.

If any major changes take place in policy, they are likely to occur as a result of the team effort of Mao, Liu and Chou.

Rev. Ruth Nicklin Begins 8th Year In White Hall

WHITE HALL — Rev. Ruth Nicklin began her eighth year as pastor of the First Christian church during the last week of April. Since her pastorate here, 142 new members have been added to the church roster including those by baptism and transfer of membership.

Rev. Nicklin is a member of the Executive Committee of the American Association of Women Ministers and during the past year has been named in "Who's Who of American Women," a new publication.

At the close of the Evangelistic Crusade recently completed and conducted in all Illinois Christian churches by the Brotherhood, 25 new members made the "decision" and have been admitted as members of the local church and include the following: Robert McCollister, Robert McCollister, Jr., Carol McCollister, Anna Overton, Mrs. Dale Coates, Ronald and Donald Cunningham, Judy Wendell, Mr. and Mrs. William Settles, Billy Settles, Sue Settles.

Ruth Rochester, Mary Kathryn Elliott, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McGlasson, Shirley McGlasson, John Early, Ralph Helinthal, Jr., John Helinthal, David Lee Kniffen, Donald Coonrod, Sherry Allen, Mildred Allen, James Jolley and Mosaline Allen.

What can you do with outmoded and unbecoming clothes? In the big cities, you can sell them to thrift shops. This also takes care of "bargains" you never wore. But in smaller towns, the best thing to do is pack a box for a relative who can use the clothes. Anyway, don't keep clothes that don't do something for you under the delusion that they're too "good" to throw away.

WHAT IS IT? — Main lobby at a museum? Opera house? University building? No, none of these. It's the modernistic central hall of a new railroad station at Barquisimeto, Venezuela. It's part of a new government-built-and-owned railroad.

They crossed fresh horse tracks heading north toward Rimrock Divide. Veto, he supposed, was convinced that his quarry had holed up in a canyon, but because Farley Breen had investigated Bent Elbow Canyon yesterday, Furlong felt reasonably certain that his hideout was secure.

For over an hour then he led them through a series of sandy defiles in a course that would approximate the aimless meandering of a drunken sheepherder astride a blind mule. When Furlong finally led his companions to the bench above Bent Elbow Canyon, Clay Dawson greeted: "Coffee's hot. I been watching you jiggers so long I got cross-eyed."

Then he peered at Buchanan Fyfe and asked, "What's he doing here, Jim?"

"Crusading," Furlong said soberly.

"Crusading?"

Furlong nodded: "In case you didn't know it, that's what we're up to—a grand crusade against Empire."

Presently, while they sampled the coffee, Fyfe used the word crusade. Dawson said disgustedly, "Look, feller. This ain't nothing fancy. We figure to do a lot of different things, but crusading ain't one of them."

Fyfe's scholarly face sobered and some of the animation faded from his eyes. "Just what do you mean?" he inquired.

"I mean this ain't going to be no town dude's dream of outdoor exercise," Dawson muttered. "It's going to be dog eat dog and don't spare the ponies."

"Buchanan understands that," Gillum said. "No need for you to be so rank with him, Clay." Turning to Furlong, Mace asked, "What have you got in mind, Jim?"

Furlong had anticipated this question and decided upon his answer during the day's riding. "Clay says he knows where to jump Empire's freight outfits. Suppose you and Clay take a crack at that while Buchanan and I set some haystacks afire, and maybe a linecamp for good measure."

"You mean—hold up a freight wagon?" Fyfe asked.

"I mean smash it, or maybe burn it," Dawson said, a wicked gleam in his eyes. "Run off the teams, or shoot 'em."

Watching Fyfe now, Furlong understood that the man was facing, for the first time, the realities of what he had called a grand crusade—was visualizing the violence and brutality it involved.

• • •

"How do we keep in touch?" Gillum inquired.

"Leave word with Fern, or Ed Overmire, or Frank Pelky, whichever is handiest," Furlong suggested.

Enthusiasm was back in Fyfe's voice now, and presently, when Furlong built a supper fire, the editor offered to do the cooking. "I've become quite accomplished at it, since my wife passed away," he said, obviously eager to make himself useful.

The supper, frugal though it had been, was well cooked. Even Dawson admitted as much by saying, "I've tasted worse, manys the time."

They rode out of the canyon at dusk, and pairing off, went their separate ways. Furlong held to a course that would eventually bring them to the fenced haystacks on the flats south and west of the horse camp. Summer's harvest of wild hay had made several big stacks. Its destruction would put Pardee in a pinch where he would have to buy more hay or sell off a considerable number of young, lightweight steers. Either way Empire lost.

Fyfe asked, "Do you think we'll have to do any shooting tonight?"

"Not unless we run into someone on the prowl," Furlong said. Remembering his own doubts a couple days ago, Furlong sought for words that would help this man face up to what might lay ahead. But he found none that seemed adequate, and so they rode in silence.

• • •

Fyfe buttoned his leather jacket against the cold breeze that came out of the west. He asked, "Where do we go afterward, Jim?"

"To the Rio Felice linecamp. Ought to make it soon after daylight, and have us a good breakfact there. Grain for our ponies, too."

"Won't there be men at the camp?"

"My guess is that Veto has pulled them all in to hunt me."

The breeze had turned into a brisk wind by the time they reached the flats where high stacks of hay formed a mile-long row of moonlight mounds in the distance. Counting them now, Furlong said, "Nine," and felt a rising sense of anticipation.

For three days and two nights he had been the hunted.

Now he was the hunter.

It gave him a good feeling.

When they came close to the first stacks, Furlong said, "Pull off a ways and keep your eyes open. If you see riders, speak up, and if they're close, shoot at them."

Fyfe nodded without speaking and rode off while Furlong went to work.

There had been no rain for weeks. The well-cured hay was tinder dry. When all nine stacks were transformed into huge bonfires, Furlong said, "Good enough!" Then he rode westward at a lope. Later as they circled southward, the eastern sky was aglow with the fire's reflected light.

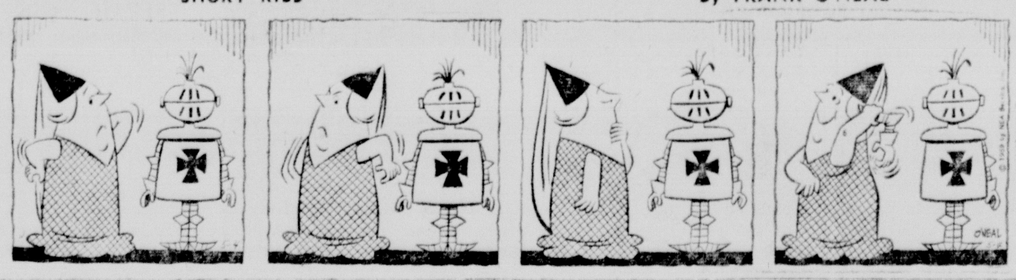

That beacon, Furlong knew, would draw Empire riders from all directions.

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

One of the most effective ways to compete is to get into the bidding by means of the takeout double.

The stronger the takeout double the better the result should be but sometimes a really light one works out beautifully.

West's double of one heart was of the light variety and when East chose to convert it into a penalty double by passing, West did not like it a bit.

Neither did North and South when the smoke of battle had cleared.

West's queen of diamonds lost to North's ace. East covered the ten of clubs with the king. South won with the ace and led the nine spot back. West was not fooled. He rose with the queen and gave his partner a club ruff.

Now East led the king of spades. It held and he shifted to the seven of diamonds. South won with the king and exited with a diamond which was won by West's jack.

Wests' ace of spades and East's queen took the next two tricks and finally East led a small trump. South might have played a high trump, dropped West's jack and got out for down one but he could not see all the cards. He played the eight. West made his jack and South was down two tricks for a 500-point loss.

What do you do?

A—Pass or bid three no-trump depending on just how seriously your partner is likely to have taken your one no-trump bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You hold the same hand. West has doubled your one no-trump and North and East have passed. What do you do now?

After the regular opening and regular reports, Mrs. Arthur Barth, Jr., rehabilitation chairman, reported that 450 tray favors had been made this past year and sent to the veterans at the Jacksonville state hospital. The unit has also sent $27.00 to the hospital's cigarette fund. Mrs. Melvin Knack thanked the members for the two large boxes of good used clothing for the child welfare division.

A letter was read telling that the 20th district meeting will be held in Beardstown Wednesday, May 20 at the Legion Home. Mrs. Raymond Scott will be a delegate from this unit. Others who expect to attend are Mrs. Oscar Nortrup, president, and Mrs. John Nortrup, district treasurer.

A bargain can sometimes be a wonderful thing, as any woman knows. But it's truly a bargain only when it fits into your wardrobe and serves a purpose there. Purple suede gloves are no bargain if you never wear purple. And this is true no matter if they're selling at less than cost.
